CLIMB TREES TO HEAR HIM

Colonel Roosevelt Seems to Be Making a Hit in Kansas.

REFERS TO TILT WITH CAMPBELL

Wilson Rushes Through His Work to Open Pennsylvania Campaign.

Pittsburg, Kas., Sept. 23.—A large crowd gathered in the public square to hear Col. Roosevelt speak here today. Men climbed trees and telephone poles, and a crowd of boys swarmed on top of a threshing machine. In the crush one woman fainted.

Col. Roosevelt defended the recall of judicial decisions. He also referred to his tilt last spring with Congressman Campbell of Kansas after the congressman expressed the opinion that the colonel was "appealing to the bleachers."

"To invert language that has been given some fame in your own district," said Col. Roosevelt, "I've intend that the people shall not merely sit on the bleachers and look at the game; we intend that the people shall run the game. We believe it should not be a game between two gangs of professionals, but that the people should say who shall play."

After his rest day in Emporia yesterday Col. Roosevelt took up the campaign again today, making his first speech in Pittsburg. He arrived here early today after a night's run from Emporia to remain for three days. A brief stop at Arcadia was arranged and the rest of the day was to be spent in Missouri with speeches at Liberal, Lamar, Ash Grove, Springfield, Aurora, Monett and Joplin.

Col. Roosevelt's transcontinent tour is nearing its close. From Missouri he

HEAVY FOG AETS THE EARLY RISERS.

The heaviest fog of the year greeted early risers in Fort Wayne this morning, when they left their homes. The fog was so heavy that one could almost cut it with the proverbial knife, and it was difficult to see more than a block in any direction. A report was circulated that two street cars came together shortly after leaving the barns, but this proved to be only a rumor.

Some say that fog is a forerunner of frost. At any rate, the weather man declares we were lucky in escaping a visit from His Majesty, Mr. Jack, as heavy frosts are reported from Michigan and other nearby states.

KNOX GIVES THEM ROYAL GOOD TIME

Mizpah Band Nobles Enjoy Elaborate Feast at Bass Lake.

TRIP IN SPECIAL CAR

The nomad band of Mizpah temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, undertook a pilgrimage upon its own account Sunday, in which the members of that sacred musical organization journeyed to Knox, thence to Bass lake, for an elaborate feast and finally rounded out the day by playing a concert program in the court house yard at the Starke county capital to the enjoyment of an immense crowd.

But nobody had so good a time as the Fort Wayne nobles, who say they were most royally entertained from the moment their train whistled for Knox at 6 o'clock in the morning until the last adieu was waved for the return to Fort Wayne Sunday evening. Two members of the nomad band, Nobles Frank Green and C. M. Fuller, reside at Knox, and it was they who invited the musical party embarked in auto for Bass lake, where the major portion of the day was spent, and where an elaborate dinner was one of the triumphs of the occasion.

There was a tour about the lake before the return to Knox, at 3:30 o'clock, where for an hour the band played a splendid concert program in the public square, with half the city as its audience. Assisting Messrs. Fuller and Green in entertaining the Fort Wayne party were Messrs. Lee M. Ransbottom, Oscar B. Smith, Glen D. Peters, Wilbur Day and Charles H. Peters, who are Shriner, and Editor Henry Schickel, of the Starke County Democrat. It will be many a day before the Shrine band crowd tires of talking of the splendid time they were given by the nobles at Knox. The party returned to Fort Wayne at 8 o'clock last evening.

THRILLER WAS PURELY A HOAX

Story of Double Suicide by Disappointed Lovers Gigantic Fake.

AUTO FIGURED IN IT

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 23.—A hoax, complete in every detail and executed in such a way as to defy discovery at the time, was perpetrated upon the Los Angeles newspapers Saturday night, when the double suicide of Niles C. Folsom, a Los Angeles attorney, and Mrs. Thelma Barte, of San Diego, was announced.

The perpetrators acted with malice, according to the authorities, and vigorous search is being made for them today. The story said Folsom and Mrs. Barte leaped to death in an automobile which Folsom had driven over Topanga pass in the Sacramento mountains. Folsom is alive and well in this city and Mrs. Barte is said to be in San Francisco. Folsom declared he had no idea who the perpetrators of the hoax could be.

A man giving his name as K. Mason, a member of the national guard, first gave the report of finding the bodies but the real K. Mason declared he was not in the mountains and knew nothing of the affair.

Folsom, who is living with his mother, at 116 Third street, Santa Monica, said: "The published account of my supposed suicide must have been inspired by some person who wished to do me harm. I have no enemies that I know of, and I cannot believe that anyone I know would cause such an article to be printed."

INVITE THE DRUM CORPS.

Local Organization May Go to Hear Wilson at Indianapolis.

The state democratic committee has invited the drum corps and members of the Allen county Jefferson club to Indianapolis to participate in the reception for Governor Wilson, who speaks there on October 3. It is likely that the local organization, accompanied by a big membership of the Jeffersonians in complete uniform, will accept the invitation.

District Chairman E. G. Hoffman, after getting into communication with the state officials, says that Wilson will not come to Fort Wayne on his first trip, as different arrangements have been completed by the national committee. Mr. Wilson is to come into Indiana again, however, later in the campaign, and may visit the Twelfth district at that time.

TO ATTACK RULE OF COMMISSION

West Virginia Strike Situation to Be Carried Into Courts.

NEW TURN IN AFFAIR

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 23.—Reports from the martial law district today indicated that striking miners and military had spent a quiet night, but more than the usual stir was created here by the report that the acts of Governor Glasscock's military commission were to be tested before Judge E. F. Teller in the United States district court for the southern district of West Virginia.

It was stated that suit would be filed late today by attorneys for the detective agency, whose men, employed as mine guards, have been sent to prison by the commission, and the defendants would be Col. C. F. Joliffe, Lieut. Col. R. L. Osborne, Major John C. Carnock, Major B. F. Scott, Major John B. Payne and Major C. Kaibach, members of the commission, and Col. George F. Wallace, judge advocate.

The petition, it was stated, would question the right of Gov. Glasscock to declare martial law when a state of war did not exist, and ask that all acts of the commission be declared void. If the suit is successful, attorneys for the detective agency assert, the mine guards now in prison will be released and the governor will be compelled to withdraw the 1,200 troops in the field.

TRADE MEN FROM ALL WORLD THERE

Congress of Chambers of Commerce Meeting in Boston.

SPEAK MANY TONGUES

Boston, Sept. 23.—Boston formally opened its gates today to the delegates to the fifth international congress of Chambers of Commerce, which will begin its sessions here tomorrow. More than 800 men prominently identified with commercial life in all corners of the earth are ready for the opening of the great congress.

The nation, the state and the city combined in plans for the reception and entertainment of the visitors, with the result that ample provision was made so that every individual should have the advantages of personal attention to meet every reasonable desire throughout its stay in the city, and beyond this, similar courtesies on a 3,000-mile tour of the principal cities east after adjournment of the congress.

Interpreters of every one of the six-on languages spoken at the congress were at hand to render assistance in assigning the guests to their various hotels and to furnish all information desired.

"Upon registration each delegate was presented with a badge and a portfolio containing a variety of valuable documents and souvenirs. Elaborate programs of the congress printed in sixteen languages, lists of delegates, cards of admission to the meetings and festivities of the congress as well as to institutions and centers of interest about the city, coupons entitling delegates to free use of taxicabs about the city and numerous other favors were to be found in the portfolios. Probably most prized of all was the official parchment enclosed in a copper case, constituting the delegates' credentials to a seat in the congress.

This evening there will be a reception tendered the delegates under the auspices of the Boston chamber of commerce.

MORE THAN HUNDRED DROWN.

Frightful River Disaster is Reported from Russia.

Paris, Sept. 23.—One hundred and fifteen persons were drowned today on the northern Dvina river near Archangel, as a result of a collision between two steamers according to a dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Information News agency.

The steamer Obnorka with 150 passengers on board was proceeding along the river when she collided with another steamer moving in the opposite direction. The Obnorka filled rapidly and sank in a few minutes, only 35 of those on board being saved.

NEGRO LOCATES STOLEN $55,000

Missing Wealth is Found by Colored Janitor in Rear of Bank.

WORKING ON CLUES

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 23.—The package containing $55,000 in currency which was mysteriously extracted from an express shipment from the First National bank here to the Louisville & Nashville pay car at Flomaton, Ala., was found today at the rear of the bank by the negro janitor of the building.

Detectives are working on several important clues which are expected to reveal the identity of the robber.

A telephone message received at the bank Saturday evening but which was unheeded under the belief that it was from a practical joker, indicates that the valuable package was placed in the rear of the bank building that evening by the thief. Bank officials re-assert confidence that the package containing the $55,000 was delivered intact to the Southern Express agency here Wednesday morning of last week. When delivery was made to the Louisville & Nashville pay car that day at Flomaton, the currency, which represented the railroad's monthly pay roll for that district,

CARS WANDERING ABOUT AS IF LOST

Street Railway Service in Duluth is Proving to Be Hugh Joke.

TAKE ANY OLD ROUTE

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 23.—A service with cars wandering up and down the lines apparently lost marked the local street car strike situation here today. After waiting twenty to forty minutes for a car people bound for Woodland, an east end suburb, found themselves headed for Park Point.

"Oh, is this the way to Park Point?" asked a new conductor. "Well, I see the rails stop at the aerial bridge. We can't cross the canal, so let's go up town."

"Say," said another strike-breaking conductor to his motorman, "have you ever been in Superior? If you can find the way, let's go over there and see that city."

By making inquiries along the line this car finally got into Superior, although it was marked "East end, Duluth."

World's Health is Purpose of Congress Under Way in Washington.

HELD FIRST TIME IN UNITED STATES

Taft Welcomes Scientists

Banded to Free World of Disease.

Washington, Sept. 23.—(Welcomed by President Taft and attended by some 3,000 delegates from all parts of the world, the fifteenth International Congress on Hygiene and Demography got into session today. It was the first time in sixty years of existence the congress has met in the United States.

United in fighting the human race of disease, these warriors for a new and wider form of freedom gathered for the exchange of greetings in Memorial Continental hall, the magnificent marble home of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

To President Taft's greeting brief replies were made by the head of the delegation from each of the thirty-three countries represented. This was followed by an address by Dr. Max Rubner, of the Emperor Frederick William university, president of the permanent international commission of the congress on an explanation of the meaning of hygiene and demography in the sanitary administration of nations, with special emphasis upon co-operative international work and an historical review of what has been accomplished to date.

Starts on Its Work. Immediately after the morning session the congress was prepared to start in on the long series of lectures and discussions which will continue throughout the week. Scheduled for today in the various sections into which the congress has been

SEEKING DATA FOR BIG CANAL

C. I. Comford, of War Department, is Coming to Fort Wayne.

GOING OVER ROUTE

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 23.—C. I. Comford, representing the war department and working under the government engineers delegated to make a preliminary survey of the proposed ship canal from Lake Erie to Lake Michigan and report on the feasibility of the project, is here collecting data on the volume of shipping to and from the city.

He will also visit South Bend, Elkhart, Goshen and Fort Wayne, through which the tentative route passes. An appropriation for the survey was made by the last congress. Toledo and Michigan City are the proposed termini of the waterway.

SCHOOLBOYS IN A RIOT; POLICE RESERVES CALLED.

New York, Sept. 23.—Police reserves were called out today to quell a riot of 1,500 public school boys, who took this means of protesting against transfer of their principals. Pupils of two schools were involved and for a short time they smashed windows, routed the janitors with showers of vegetables and terrorized the neighborhood. The pupils paraded the streets and prevented the children who did not join them from entering the school building.

How Stories Start

"ONE DAY last year, when it was raining hard," said a teacher in the Jefferson school, "I left the school room for a minute or two to see if the outer hallway door was closed to prevent the water from coming in. Along with the rain there was quite a quantity of hail, which pattered on the doorstep. When I re-entered the room the hail was playing a tattoo on the window panes."

"One of the little girls raised her hand, indicating a desire to say something."

"What is it?" I asked.

"Please, teacher," she replied, "one of the boys said a bad word while you were out."

"Of course, I was shocked at such a report, and, having located the alleged culprit, I asked him to explain his conduct."

"No, teacher," said he, "I didn't say any bad word that I know of. I heard the noise on the window panes, and all I said was, 'Well, isn't that hail!' I believed him. I also believe that many scandals start from just such misunderstandings."

GRAND JURY DID NOT INVESTIGATE

Jay Robinson Seeks Release from Bond and Motion Will Be Heard.

VICTIM IN BAD SHAPE

When Jay Robinson, the negro porter who shot Pete Lapinsky several months ago in a night at the Baites hotel, was arraigned in the city court today, Phil E. Colerick, his attorney, sought to have him released from his bond on the ground that he is entitled to a dismissal because the grand jury did not investigate the matter at its last sitting. Lapinsky is out of the hospital for the first time and his wound has not healed. He desires to get back to his home, as he is convinced that he will die from the effects of the pistol wound and he wants to get to Poland while he is alive. It is possible that the state's attorney will take his deposition and allow him to return. A statute makes it the grand jury's duty to investigate the cases of all persons held in jail and out on bond and when no investigation is had such persons are entitled to their release. It is contended by the state, however, that this case was never in the circuit court and that the statute pertains only to that court. Robinson had had no examination as Lapinsky has been unable to appear against him and his case was still in the city court.

Then he will go to New York, reaching there Oct. 2, and after a short rest will leave on a week's trip into the middle west. The colonel said he felt "bully" and was enjoying the trip. In spite of the strain of the campaign his throat is in better condition, his physicians say, than when he left New York.

CALLS WHITMAN LIAR AND SHRIMP

Some Unique Samples of Legal Dignity in Hot Springs Hearing.

NEW YORK MAN COOL

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 22.—District Attorney Whitman, of New York, was under fire when the hearing was resumed to determine what conversations Sam Schepps, the Rosenthal conspiracy witness, had with Hot Springs people during his sojourn here. Once the district attorney was branded a liar after a tilt with L. E. Sawyer, a Hot Springs lawyer, retained by John W. Hart, representing Police Lieutenant Becker. "Oh, you Arkansas," coolly retorted Whitman, with a laugh. He seemed as unconcerned when Mr. Hart called him a "little shrimp." The tilt began when Mr. Hart asked to have other witnesses than his one additional witness, Gilbert Hagaboom, examined. Mr. Whitman declined, referring to the stipulation made Saturday and the fact that only one person, Hagaboom, had then been named. Then Sawyer asked Mr. Whitman if he would not agree to examination of material witnesses after the regular order had been exhausted. "I will not," Whitman declared. "These tactics are old in New York." "What do you mean by tactics?" Sawyer asked. "Delay," was Whitman's response. "Do you insinuate that this is meant for delay?" said Sawyer. "I make no insinuation at all," Whitman replied. "I state it as a fact." "You are a liar," shouted Sawyer. "Oh, you Arkansas," retorted Whitman, laughing. "You little shrimp," interposed Hart, leaning over the table toward Whitman. The district attorney would not glance at Hart's action, but continued to laugh at Mr. Sawyer. The hearing then adjourned until tonight. A late session is probable.

WORKING IN SECTIONS.

Catholic Charities Body in Session in Washington.

Washington, Sept. 22.—The national conference of Catholic charities in biennial session today resolved itself into sections to discuss charitable work and organization. The conference is a meeting of prominent Catholic charity workers for the exchange of views on social problems. The delegates will be received by President Taft at the white house this afternoon. Among those who were to speak today were Robert Biggs, of Baltimore; Mrs. T. H. Kelley, of New York; Edwin Mulready and C. A. DeCoursey, of Boston; Rev. Michael McCarthy, S. J., and Patrick Mallon, of N. W. Miss Mary E. Spinnick, Cincinnati; Dr. Mary Porter and Mrs. T. J. Meder, of Chicago; J. J. McLoughlin, New Orleans and Dr. T. C. Carrigan, of the Catholic university.

The afternoon was to be devoted to meetings of the St. Vincent de Paul society, the Christ Child society and other charitable organizations. At the night session "the city and its poor" was to be discussed.

EDWARDS TO BE TRIED FIRST.

Last of Hillsville Clansmen Arraigned in Court.

Hillsville, Va., Sept. 22.—Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, the mountain gunmen, were arraigned here today in the same court room where on March 14 five lives were snuffed out in a shooting affray of which they are alleged to have been the ringleaders. By the consent of lawyers on both sides their trials were transferred to Fayetteville, where two of their clan were sentenced to die and others got long terms in prison. Edwards will be tried first, beginning on Oct. 2, for the murder of Commonwealth Attorney Foster. Allen will be tried for the murder of Judge Massie, when Edwards' trial is over. The prisoners were returned to the Roanoke jail.

MAY DISMISS CASES.

Grand Jury Returns No Indictments Against Lairds.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Sept. 22.—No indictment was found by the grand jury against Walter Laird, his child wife, Mary Laird, or his sister-in-law, Lena Laird, who are charged with perjury and subornation of perjury. The bride who is 16 years old but who gave her age as 18 when she was married here on July 11, is in a convent at Louisville. The other woman is out on bond and Laird is still in jail. In the absence of any indictment it is thought the cases will be dismissed.

ASSOCIATION TO RESUME ITS WORK

East Side Organization Will Meet Soon to Talk Improvements.

WANT HARMER FIELD

The East Side and Mummer River Civic Improvement association is about ready to begin its winter activities and after having tested during the summer months the officers will call a meeting within a few days for the discussion of numerous improvements desired in the Eighth ward. One of the principal things to come before the meeting is the proposed park. The association would like to secure the old Harmer battlefield as site for the park, and it would also like to secure better approaches to the new bridge being built at Conals street. "We really need four approaches to the new bridge," said Henry W. Lepper, secretary of the association. "We need an approach from Columbia avenue, from Hanover street, from Conals street and from Walton avenue. This subject will be thoroughly discussed at the meeting to be held either late this week or early next week when we get together for the first time this season."

GOVERNOR STARTS NORTHWARD.

Mr. Marshall to Attend Funeral at Columbia City.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 22.—Gov. Marshall today officially declared the close of summer when he appeared at his office wearing a knee length black overcoat. He smiled when attaches of his office began to notice the garment and said: "I'm wearing this because it's easier to wear it than to carry it." The governor's collection of summer hats also has been discarded and a black derby appeared on his head. The governor left today for Columbia City to attend a funeral. From there he will go to Fort Wayne and then to South Bend, Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids, Mich., for speeches.

Laporte, Ind., Sept. 22.—It has become known that the Rumely company of this city would erect a new plant for the manufacture of what will be known as the Orchard tractor. Employment will be given to 1,000 men. At a conference Saturday between Mayor Darrow and Dr. E. A. Rumely, the assurance was given that Laporte would build 1,000 new houses in addition to the 500 now in course of construction and several hundred in prospect. There is a possibility that the plant may be located in Richmond, Ind., or Battle Creek, Mich.

ONE-MAN PARTY, SAYS DEBS.

Socialist Nominée in Retort to Roosevelt Reference.

Pittsburgh, Kan., Sept. 22.—Eugene V. Debs, socialist candidate for president, addressing a picnic of Crawford county socialists today, answered Col. Roosevelt's recent reference to him as a "one-man party" by charging that Roosevelt is the leader of a "one-man party." "I am angry because defeated by the republican party," said Mr. Debs, "Roosevelt decided to have a party of his own. So he called a convention at Chicago, nominated himself and then, by acclamation, accepted the nomination and now is campaigning as 'the people's own candidate.'"

Probably the most widely read man in Indiana county, was a philosopher and patron of the arts, as well as a lawyer, music teacher and practicing physician. divided were discussions on public health organization and administration in England and Germany, the hygiene of infancy and childhood, the physiology and pathology of work and fatigue, bacillus carriers and the importance of flies and other insects as carriers of infectious diseases, the importance of shell fish, particularly oysters, in relation to infection, disease, the control of diseases in the army, the use of hospital ships and the development of vital statistics in the United States since 1900 and measures needed for the immediate future.

A garden party at the white house, scheduled for the afternoon, was expected to be the first of a series of entertainments arranged for the social side of the congress. In addition to the 2,000 delegates, many of whom have wives and daughters accompanying them, visitors attracted to Washington by the congress, have brought the total number of guests here up to probably ten thousand.

Many Displays There. The exhibition hall in which are displays showing what the nation, states, cities and private social betterment associations are doing to improve the health of the people, was thronged all day with visitors.

Adequate laws and their rigid enforcement for the guardianship and protection of children were urged by Lenora L. Medler, Chicago, a member of the Catholic Woman's League. She urged the prevention of street selling at night by child peddlers. State support of children whose natural protectors have been imprisoned, and greater protection to girl immigrants against the dangers of the white slave traffic.

GOVERNMENT SHOULD LEAD.

President Advocates Federal Bureau Hygienic Research.

Washington, Sept. 22.—"We need to develop under governmental auspices a bureau or a department in which the funds of the government shall be expended for research of every kind useful in the practice and enforcement of hygiene and preventive medicine," said President Taft today in delivering an address of welcome to the delegates to the fifteenth congress on hygiene and demography at Continental Memorial hall.

"That something of this sort may grow out of the present United States public health service there is reason to believe," continued the president, "but it will need far greater appropriations and a widening of its scope of duties before it shall have filled the place that the medical profession of this country has a right to expect the general government to create in the progress of hygiene and demography."

Referring to the subject of tropical hygiene President Taft said:

"Our responsibilities in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines and now on the Isthmus of Panama, have so enlarged our knowledge of the possibilities of successful sanitation under the most burdensome conditions and have so impressed both professional men and the laymen at all familiar with the conditions, with the necessity for more rigid and comprehensive health laws, and strict enforcement of them for the general public good that if the Spanish war resulted in nothing else it was worth greatly more than its cost in this useful development of one of the most important functions that modern government has to discharge."

"When we first went into the tropics our purpose was to make that region habitable for white people. We have demonstrated that as a possibility. "I consider it a proud record of the American army that through its medical corps engaged in hygienic work in the tropics so many important discoveries as to the transmission of disease and the methods of stopping its spread, have been given to the world and all of this is dated chiefly from the time of the Spanish war."

"It is very certain that but for those discoveries the construction of the Panama canal, which now since 1904, has been going on with giant strides and which will be completed within a year, would have been impossible."

was missing, and in its stead were found slips of paper cut from magazines.

The robber was pursued so closely that his nerve failed him and he crept to the bank and left the money where it was found today, is the belief generally expressed here.

The bank claims to have taken unusual care in preparing the currency for shipment. Several of the bank employees in an automobile took the money in a package to the Southern Express company's office and got a receipt for it. A son of the bank's president was among the men who took the package to the express company.

TREE SURGERY PROLONGS LIFE

City Forestry Force is Demonstrating Some Good Work.

AN EXAMPLE IS CITED

The life of a large tree on Barr street near the Cooney cigar factory and standing in front of the property of J. W. Foley, of Los Angeles, is being prolonged many years by the city forestry department. The method employed to save the beautiful tree is called tree surgery. The tree contained three large cavities, which were growing larger every year, and the tree would have died in a few years. Mr. Foley, during a visit here asked the forestry department to try to save this valuable asset to his property, and the force was working on it today. The cavities were filled with a cement mixture, and it is expected that the tree will stand for many more years.

Tree surgery consists of removing decayed and diseased portions of a living tree and aseptically filling the cavity with a cement mixture. Within a few years, depending upon the size of the cavity, the bark will heal over, hermetically sealing the cavity and preserving the tree.

The diseased portion of the tree must be skillfully chiseled out with a sharp instrument. This operation is continued until the sound wood is reached. The cavity must then be disinfected with a poison spray to kill chewing insects. Then the cavity is painted with a disinfecting tar paint and filled in with a cement mixture. In general the cavity is sealed with a zinc cap nailed to a shingle directly upon the border of the cavity.

PROMINENT BANKER DEAD.

Henry McLellan Died Suddenly at Home in Columbia City.

Columbia City, Ind., Sept. 22.—Henry McLellan, one of the pioneer residents of Whitley county and president of the First National bank, died suddenly at his home in this city Sunday morning, aged 71 years. He went to bed at an early hour feeling as well as ever, and Sunday morning got up, completed his morning toilet, came downstairs and had just stepped into the dining room for breakfast when his wife noticed him place both hands over his heart and reel and fall heavily to the floor, and when she reached his side life was extinct.

Then he began to snarl and show his teeth so menacingly that spectators fled from the court room. His case was continued. It was said he would be sent to an asylum. Guthrie, a college graduate and former school teacher, was one of the most mysterious prisoners with whom the police have had to deal. His room, when he was arrested, presented a dazzling array of jewelry, bric-a-brac and silks taken from the homes of wealthy people.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

LAWYER IS SLAVE TO "DOPE" HABIT

William Brennan, Formerly of Fort Wayne, Now a Nervous Wreck and Tramp in West.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 23.—Started on the downward path into the life and habits of a dope fiend, William Brennan, at one time engaged in business in Fort Wayne and also a member of the law firm of Taylor & Brennan in Wabash, well known in this city and at Wabash and Fort Wayne since civil war times, was seen in Kansas City a short time ago, a hopeless and friendless outcast and a veritable tramp.

A short time ago, Charles McCrum, son of Robert McCrum, of Lancaster township, and now lawyer in Kansas City, was walking along the streets of that city when he was touched by the scene of an old man begging for a few pennies along the streets. McCrum thought to help the old man out, and gave him a small piece of silver. One word led to another, and the vagrant discovering that Mr. McCrum was from Indiana, asked him to name the city. Upon hearing the word Huntington, the old man seemed to be overwhelmed.

Making himself known, he announced that his name was William Brennan, and that he too was a lawyer, or what remained of one, as he stated. He told of being connected with the law firm of Taylor & Brennan in Wabash and was well acquainted with Judge Watkins, Judge Brannan, deceased, Judge Slack and Colonel Milligan, and many others of the older prominent men of Huntington. Upon being asked the circumstances leading to his degradation he told the entire story.

Story of His Downfall.

It seems that Brennan always had been afflicted with a weak stomach. At one time the pain became so acute that he went to a physician and asked him for something to relieve his suffering. He was given an opiate in the form of morphine. He took that and made other calls on the physician when troubled. Later on he became so attached to the drug that he started using it without the advice of a physician, and in a brief time became a nervous wreck and a hopeless fiend for drugs.

He was connected with the law firm for some time thereafter but later went into business for himself in Fort Wayne. Because of his unsteady condition he went bankrupt within a short time, and his friends refused to help him. Since that time, more than two score years ago, he has been wandering about the country.

When seen by Mr. McCrum he had just been released from a hospital in Kansas City. Upon getting out he resumed his old manner of getting a living by begging on the streets. Brennan is now a man over 70 years of age, although he presents the appearance of a younger man. He is quite enfeebled but hopes to reach Wabash or Huntington if possible. He had been tramping all through the west.

COMBINATION

The word "combination" is not here used in its ordinary, modern, business sense.

It is reference to the happy combination that has made this bank the great success that everyone knows it to have been.

It refers to the fact that the officers are practical and successful bankers while the directors are practical and successful business men.

That makes a combination mighty hard to beat, especially when the officers and directors all pull together.

This bank also combines the safety of a national bank with the convenience of a savings bank. It maintains a saving department where interest is paid at the rate of 4 per cent.

BEEHIVE BREAKS IN CAR.

Accident Prevents Trainmen From Unloading Cargo.

Minneapolis, Sept. 23.—Bees, each of whom seemed to have only a single thought, to sting as one, proved themselves mightier than the train crew of a Great Northern mixed freight and passenger train between Minneapolis and Hutchinson, and there are persons scattered at stations from Crystal Bay to Hutchinson who are wondering why their baggage or freight did not arrive.

When the train started from Minneapolis there were ten hives of bees consigned to the Rev. Francis Jaeger at St. Bonifacius, Minn. By the time the bees got to Crystal Bay three of the hives were smashed, and as a result no freight was left there and the car door was closed with a ten-foot pole. At Minnetonka Beach a policeman was asked to restrain the bees from interfering with interstate commerce, but he "bunked" on the job.

Father Jaeger now has his bees at St. Bonifacius, but is waiting until their tempers improve before unloading them, and the car—with all the rest of the freight—will stand on the sidetrack for some time.

MURDERS GIRL; HANGS HIMSELF

Double Tragedy Enacted at Vincennes on Sunday.

SMITTEN ON ACTRESS

Vincennes, Ind., Sept. 23.—Miss Lucille May, aged 17, ingenue with a stock company playing at a local theater, was shot and killed yesterday by Thomas Davis, a suitor, who then attempted to shoot himself, but the cartridge jammed. After the shooting, which occurred in a restaurant, Davis coolly walked into the street, where he was arrested. A few hours after Davis was placed in jail his body was found hanging from a bar, suspended by a towel. Davis told the police that his home was in London, England, and that he was ex-middleweight champion, having fought under the name of Harry N. Hector. He was 36 years old. Among his effects were found several unmailed letters containing in all $1,200. One of the letters was addressed to his wife, Mrs. J. H. Davis, of Bridgeville, Pa., and told of his plans to kill Miss May and himself.

Mrs. Helen K. May, mother of the girl, who accompanied her on her tour, is in a local hospital, suffering severely from the shock. The May home is in Paris, Mo.

Both bodies are now at the morgue. Several hours elapsed before the principals in the tragedy were positively identified. In his cell at the jail before hanging himself, Davis said he came to Vincennes Saturday morning with the intention of ending it all. He declared he loved the May girl ever since he first met her two years ago in Oklahoma City, Okla. A large bundle of letters covering a considerable period had some reference to marriage and the future plans of the couple and one from the girl was so young and expressed a wish that her education and especially her musical training be completed before any marriage should occur. The mother pleaded for delay.

The discovery by Miss May that Davis had a wife and daughter living caused the final break with him, it is alleged. A letter from Miss May to Davis, written September 12th, from Paris, Mo., dwells on this fact. The communication was written on a typewriter in red ink and concludes:

"You said you wouldn't want me if I didn't care for you. And that is the whole thing. I don't care, as I thought I did; that's all."

The Garbage Disposal Levy.

It was inevitable that any cut in the city tax levy from other purposes to provide the start of a sinking fund to ultimately give Fort Wayne an adequate garbage disposal system must result in disappointment in some quarter, and under the present arrangement it is the park fund that is to be temporarily hampered. It is now practically a certainty that two cents will be lopped from the park levy and placed to the credit of a garbage disposal fund, for the reason that the city council believed it unwise to advance the total rate above $1.14 and figured that the park department could stand the cut with less hardship than any other. The purpose for which the new fund is created is so important that we believe there will be little disposition to criticize it after a consideration of the situation, though The Sentinel is so warm a friend of the park development proposition that it regrets to see work in this direction hampered. Unfortunately the garbage question obtrudes itself in imperative fashion at a time when demands for track elevation expense are also insistent, and before the city authorities feel warranted in making a cut in the municipal lighting levy. The question of the tax burden is a serious one, and it will be recalled that not so long ago there was a determined effort year after year to keep the city levy at a total of $1, that being the mark fixed by a sort of unwritten law as the limit which should not be passed. Yet new conditions and the demand for further improvements have caused Fort Wayne to long ago lose sight of the old mark, though any material increase from recent figures would doubtless have occasioned criticism. The creation of the garbage disposal fund is unquestionably a step in the right direction, and The Sentinel hopes a way may be found in the following year's budget to more than compensate the park department for the handicap a reduction of its funds during the coming year must inevitably inflict.

benefits we are to gain from the opening of our waterway to Panama. Considered with reliable reports from Latin America, Mr. Barrett reaches the conclusion that unless the manufacturers, exporters, importers and shipping interests of this country get busy preparing for the opening of the canal, only a year and a half away, Europe will have a head start in the race for the South American market.

Among the evidences of European preparation he noted extraordinary efforts to improve the efficiency of the ports of the maritime nations; that shipbuilding yards were working to capacity on vessels for the Panama traffic; that governments were urging their diplomatic and consular officers to study every phase of Latin American trade and opportunity; that chambers of commerce and other commercial organizations were sedulously cultivating Latin America. On the other side of the world Japan has three companies building ships for the inter-oceanic trade and agents in the field. The Pacific coast of South America is extending railroads into the interior and improving its ports, while similar development on the Atlantic coast is being hastened.

Meanwhile American commercial organizations seem with some exceptions, to be waiting for the canal to be opened before hurrying about its possibilities. Mr. Barrett earnestly repeats that unless we awake to the situation we shall find it a long and stern chase to overtake the more forward-looking Europeans in capturing the benefits of the great highway we have created. This is a subject that every manufacturer, exporter and importer should at once take up. It is not a matter that can safely be left until the day before the canal is thrown open.

AMAZING FIGURES.

(New York World.)

The campaign against the white-slave evil and its social and pathological ramifications instituted by the American Federation of Sex Hygiene has a laudable purpose, and, conducted as it is under the auspices of eminent physicians, educators and philanthropists, it merits popular support.

But the alarmist data published by the federation are seriously open to question as to their authenticity. Is it true that 200,000 women in the United States are publicly immoral and 1,000,000 more are "clandestinely immoral," an estimate pronounced by the federation "ridiculously low"? Is it also true that Americans "spend $2,000,000,000 a year on immorality and the social diseases"?

These figures, if they possessed any credibility, would mean that a number of women equal to the female population of states like New Jersey, Georgia and Michigan are engaged in immoral pursuits; that for every four women earning their living there is one woman of immoral life. They would mean that Americans spend annually in social vice an amount greater than the value of the corn and wheat crops combined, and as great as the total revenue of the railroads.

That is preposterous. The figures will be taken as inspired by the same feverishness of imagination which is discernible in the general reform view of the social evil. The facts are bad enough as it is without distorting them for the prejudice of a worthy cause.

MAKE WAGER IN COURT.

Defendant Bets Prosecutor $5 That There Is No "Other Woman."

Washington, Sept. 23.—George Hamill, a clerk in a big department store and living in Kennelworth, D. C., who, according to his wife's charges, does not properly clothe her, is being shadowed constantly for the corporation counsel's office in consequence of his wager of $5 with Assistant Corporation Counsel George that there is not another woman in the case.

"Who is the other girl?" asked the prosecutor after the wife, Mary, had related her story of alleged neglect.

"There is none," the husband replied. "Oh, yes, there is; I'll bet $5 on it."

"You're on!" snapped Hamill, as he covered the bet. He said he earned only $20 a week, but Mrs. Hamill was certain that he received more.

"I am going to have you watched," said Mr. George, "and if I catch you with an affinity it will go mighty hard with you."

THE PEOPLE'S SAVINGS.

(Indianapolis News.)

At the meeting of the Bankers' association at Detroit, John J. Pullen, of New York, gave some encouraging figures on the savings habit and its results among us. The total number of depositors in the country's savings bank he gave as something more than 8,500,000, or about 10 per cent. of our whole population. They are represented by $4,250,000,000. So we are not so wasteful as we might feel from the much well placed exhortation that we have on the subject. Or at least we may feel, with this showing, that amid our wastefulness, which, it must be conceded, is a national characteristic, there are exceptions. Were they better distributed, it were still better. The great mass of these thirty people is in the east. New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania account for $3,335,000,000 of the $4,250,000,000, and of this the New England states have two-thirds as much as New York. New Jersey and Pennsylvania combined. So the "land of steady habits" still stands. But, of course, another cause is that that part of the country is the oldest and most populous—so old and so populous that when the west started to develop there folk had accumulated sufficient to want a place for their surplus. New York has more money in her savings banks than has all the country south of the Potomac and west of the Ohio-Indiana line. A large industrial population may be cited as another cause for this. But to these things are to be added the fact that those states generally have wise savings bank laws.

In the west generally for two generations the savings of the east were needed. Now the west is becoming more self-sustaining. The loans of the west are now made chiefly as incidental to the increased volume of business, and the east does not count on large and quick returns from beyond the Mississippi, when the crops are harvested, as was once the case. The states called western have now, according to Mr. Pullen, $375,000,000 in their savings banks, and here is the present inference that the thrift of New England was transplanted when eastern immigrants came west to grow up with the country.

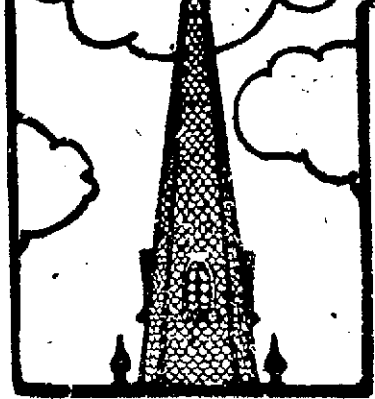

Taking the country as a whole, it is estimated that the actual number of savings banks deposits represents perhaps 30,000,000 people. In this we get a view of a growing thrift (from an old root in the east) and with it a suggestion of the wisdom of broad legislation for savings banks everywhere that this class of deposits may profit to the best advantage and so be an incentive for the leading of the people, which if done, we have good authority for saying, will leave the dollars to take care of themselves.

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

PASTORS PLAN YEAR'S MEETING

Sessions of Fort Wayne Ministerial Association for 1912-13.

THEMES DISCUSSED

The first meeting of the Fort Wayne Ministerial association for its sessions of 1912-13 was held this afternoon at rooms of the First Baptist church, at which time the subject considered was "Community Betterment; Co-operation Between the Church and the Newspaper," the round table conference being led by Rev. E. W. Averill, the pastor of the Trinity Episcopal church. At the 6 o'clock banquet, which followed, the ministers were the guests of the Revs. Edward Montgomery and Earle Marion Todd.

The association holds two meetings a month during the year's session, commencing the latter part of September and ending about the middle of the following May. The purpose is the discussion of matters of interest concerning the church in general with a view of securing co-operation in action for the advancement of church work generally and the betterment of moral conditions in the city. Practical methods are pursued by the association in its work along these lines and in the past it has been the means of accomplishing great good. The association enters the new year with the following officers:

President—Rev. Edward Montgomery, of the Third Presbyterian church. Vice President—Rev. C. Claude Travis, of Wayne street M. E. church, who is also representative to the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor. Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. C. O. Shiver, of the Bethany Presbyterian church.

Standing committees—Social: Revs. H. B. Master, A. K. Zartman and W. A. Grist. Program: Revs. E. M. Todd, A. J. Folsom and E. W. Averill.

The October meetings will be held on the 7th and 21st of the month. At the first meeting Rev. Frank Ruff will discuss the theme, "The Church and the Boy," and at the second meeting Rev. G. E. Byers will speak on "Our City Schools." The theme of Rev. A. J. Folsom at the meeting to be held November 4 is "The Moral Influence of the Pool Room." At the three following meetings there will be book reviews: "The Educational Ideal of the Ministry" by Rev. C. E. Doyer; "The Case of Richard Myer" by Rev. A. B. Evans; "Life's Basis and Life's Ideal" by Rev. C. H. Snashall, and "Creative Evolution" by Rev. E. M. Todd.

"The Churches and the Labor Unions" will be the subject discussed by Rev. C. C. Travis at the meeting held on January 27th, and at the meeting held two weeks later, February 24, Rev. H. B. Master will speak on "The Restriction of Marriage." The programed 1. ners for the remaining sessions are as follows:

March 10—"Modern Missionary Enterprise," Rev. C. A. Hirschmann. March 24—"Modern Revival Methods," Rev. D. H. Guild. April 7—"The New Testament, in the Christian Church," Rev. F. H. Crengan. April 21—"Introduction to the Literature of the New Testament," Rev. T. P. Potts.

May 5—"Experiences in Rescue Mission Work," J. A. Nipper, superintendent Rescue Mission.

The 1912-13 sessions will close with what the program calls "The Ministerial Association Picnic." This will be something new in the history of the association and, no doubt, it will be an interesting event.

SOME VITAL QUESTIONS.

Series of Sermons to Be Delivered by Rev. H. B. Master.

The evening Sunday services at the First Presbyterian church will be resumed on Sunday, October 6, and at that time the pastor, H. B. Master, will begin a series of sermons on the general subject of "Some Vital Questions of Today." The pastor has announced his "circular themes for the first four Sunday evenings as follows: October 6, "Has the Church Lost Its Usefulness?" October 13, "Is the Bible an Obsolete Book?" October 20, "Is the Sabbath an Outworn Institution?" October 27, "Is There a Place for Christ in the Life of the Twentieth Century?" The themes of the other discourses will be announced later. Rev. Mr. Master is a close student of up to date ideas and discusses practical questions in a most interesting manner. His sermons are full of valuable thought, and undoubtedly this series will be so. Prof. Archer, who is the organist and choir director, is planning good musical programs for these Sunday evening meetings.

PILLARS OF THE CHURCH.

Forcible Sunday Evening Sermon Preached by Rev. Montgomery.

Using as his theme "The Pillar of Truth," the fourth of a series of sermons on "Pillars," Rev. Edward Montgomery, the pastor, delivered a strong discourse Sunday evening at the Third Presbyterian church. The pillars of truth of the religion of Jesus Christ, he said, are his true disciples and the church. These disciples to be pillars of religion and the church must be Christians in word and in deed, living lives

RELIGIOUS GARB MAY BE RETAINED

Taft Upholds Fisher in Revoking Order Prohibiting Habit.

IN INDIAN SCHOOLS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—Secretary Fisher's action last January in revoking the order of former Indian Commissioner Valentine, barring religious garb or insignia from government Indian schools, was upheld by President Taft in an order made public yesterday.

The decision of the president is that teachers now employed in Indian schools may continue to wear the garb of their religious orders, but the privilege is denied to any persons hereafter entering the service. This ruling will permit the government to fulfill its obligations, the president says, to the teachers who were taken into the government service when religious schools were taken over bodily as government institutions.

Final of Long Dispute. The president's ruling is the final step in a controversy that has engaged the interior department with religious bodies more than a year. Commissioner Valentine's order would have prohibited any teachers from wearing religious garb in the Indian schools after the end of the last school year.

President Taft's order and a letter from Secretary Fisher to Mr. Valentine, which accompanies it, lay stress on the fact that Commissioner Valentine issued his ruling without consulting the secretary or the president, and while the entire subject was under investigation. Mr. Fisher's revocation of the order now is made final.

Secretary Fisher's formal letter says the government had long left the education of the Indians to religious missionaries, and that when it finally began a systematic handling of the educational problem it took over many of the religious schools and brought their teachers into the government classified service.

Affects Fifty-one Teachers. "The transfers thus have often been effected by the government's routing denominational schools and taking over the whole plant and the teachers as well," said President Taft.

"It appears that out of 2,000 teachers in the Indian schools there are fifty-one who wear a religious garb and who are regularly classified members of the government civil service. To direct them to give up their religious garb would necessarily cause their leaving the service because of their rows under which they have assumed the garb."

Secretary Fisher holds there is no legal prohibition against the employment of government teachers who wear religious dress, and that opinion is endorsed by the president. It is pointed out that sectarian religious instruction is not given in any of the schools now under government control.

Politicians Lined Up for Start of Fighting Campaign.

DATES OF MEETING

Politicians of Allen county and the Twelfth district are beginning to line up now for the first actual scrimmage which begins this week, when all the powers of oratory, and all the efforts of the different political organizations, will be turned loose in furthering the interests of the different parties. Republicans, democrats and bull mooseers have made arrangements for the actual beginning of the fighting campaign.

Dates have been named for organization meetings, and the party candidates are planning to scour the district in an effort to get the voters lined up, and to draw the party lines more closely.

While meetings have been held in all parts of the district at regular intervals during the last month or two, united work will now be the feature. Organization work has practically been completed and the workers are now ready to turn their attention to the active issues of one of the most interesting political campaigns ever held in the United States.

It is admitted that there is still a little discontent on the part of a few republicans throughout the district, but leaders in the G. O. P. are confident that this will be eliminated by the close of this week, and District Chairman Allen J. Vesey is going to call a meeting of county chairmen within two days for the purpose of determining the actual conditions, and furthering the campaign work. Mr. Vesey will also make an extensive trip throughout the district within a short time.

He has practically decided to elect no new county chairman for the Allen county central committee, and the party affairs here will be looked after by Vice-Chairman George H. Loesch and Secretary Benjamin W. Skelton.

The feature of this week for the republicans of the county will be the addresses of R. H. Langford, of North Platte, Neb. Mr. Langford will speak at the Sheldon school house tomorrow evening.

He is a stockman, and it is said this his addresses are of especial interest to farmers. Tonight Mr. Langford will address a meeting at republican headquarters, and on Wednesday night he goes to Monroeville for a mass meeting.

Democratic Meetings. Democratic County Chairman Alva Johnson has completed a schedule for a number of meetings to be held here this week. Three meetings will be held Wednesday night. Hon. John W. Egeman and Hon. James M. Robinson will address the voters at the Olive club, on Maumee avenue. At the same time meetings will be held in Bloomingdale, at the M. & N. club, on Wells street, and at Wherie's barn, 1332 Fairfield avenue. Speakers for these meetings have not been selected.

Messrs. Egeman and Robinson will speak Friday night at Weick's barn, 1017 Hanna street. A meeting will be held also in the Seventh ward, at the corner of Buchanan and Lafayette streets.

Progressive Meetings. Voters of the Second ward who are in sympathy with the bull moose movement, will meet this evening at progressive headquarters on Clinton street. Tuesday night Will C. Geake and Arthur W. Parry will speak at a meeting to be held at the Center school house in Zel River township.

First Progressive Dollar. David Meyer, the Columbia street blacksmith, walked into progressive headquarters on Clinton street Sunday. "Is this the bull moose headquarters?" asked Mr. Meyer.

BOY SAVED FROM "LIVING DEATH" BY COMMON SODA WATER GAS

Remarkable Cure of Leprosy, First Case Since Christ, by Dr. Wayson, Scientist, of Honolulu, Gives Promise of Establishing Remedy for Dread Disease.

If you should happen to see Chas. F. (his last name is only known to physicians), running around Honolulu you probably wouldn't pay any more attention to him than you would to hundreds of other nice looking youngsters. Yet Charles is destined to be known in medical history as the first person ever cured of leprosy since the days of Christ.

Two years ago various learned medical men gravely examined a small spot on Charles' cheek. It was slightly raised and measured an inch and a half across. Probably they wouldn't have paid much attention to it had they not known that his mother was a leper. They sent him to the Kala hospital for treatment and in due time he would have gone to Molokai to join the colony of the living dead.

But science and the "lunch" of one man stepped in to prevent it. Dr. J. T. Wayson was the man with the "lunch," and the science to put it to use. He studied Charles F. He dosed him with chaulmoogra oil, exelixer phosphate of iron, quinine and strychnine. Then he did something which no other medical man has ever done, so far as is known. He took carbon dioxide gas, which is the gas used to charge soda water, shot it into a tube and formed particles of snow. This snow had a temperature of 112 degrees below zero. He packed it into a pencil and applied it to the leprosy sore. The intense cold froze the skin, producing an inflammation reaction that raised a blister. As soon as the skin again appeared as before, he once more applied the pencil of snow. Day after day, week after week, he kept this up.

Just fifteen and a half months after the first treatment the same learned men of medicine again examined Charles. They tested his blood, his entire body, to discover leprosy.

But there was no sign. So far as they could tell he was cured. Charles F. is still free of leprosy, but he is being watched closely to see if it again develops.

In a neat little cottage on Bereitania street, a middle-aged man, whose hair is plentifully sprinkled with grey, talked of the recent wonderful cure which had saved one child from a living death and may save thousands, perhaps millions.

He was Dr. J. T. Wayson, medical superintendent of Kala hospital, where those who have leprosy are first treated before being sent to Molokai.

"I don't claim that this treatment is a cure positive for leprosy," he said slowly, "because it isn't. We can't cure those who have had it for years, but this I do believe: That if incipient cases can be taken they can be cured just as we cured Charles F."

"The principal thing in his case was to keep the germs in one spot. That meant preventing them from spreading through the blood. To do this I formed a large blister over the wound, took from this blister from one to two ounces of serum and re-injected into the body about every ten days. Then I worked on the spot with the 'snow pencil'."

In his laboratory Dr. Wayson turned to a small tank, served on a cap and turned a screw. A hissing sound was heard. He unscrewed the cap and snow could be seen around the inner edges of the cap. A plunger packed it into a solid mass and a second later Dr. Wayson laid on the reporter's hand a pencil of snow. The intense cold bit into the flesh like fire.

"It is," replied Secretary Robert Dickson.

"Well here's a dollar for your campaign fund. I'm in favor of this bull moose business," said Mr. Meyer, as he flung a silver coin into the secretary's desk. Then he turned around and walked out.

That dollar, according to progressive leaders, is the first money for the campaign fund turned in at headquarters or solicited. Mr. Meyer had taken no active part in the campaign. He resides in the Pixley-Long block.

SAYS SOCIALISTS ARE GAINING. Stephen M. Reynolds, of Terre Haute, Addresses Big Gathering.

Paying his respects to Color! Theodore Roosevelt by claiming that he is one of labor's worst enemies, Stephen M. Reynolds, of Terre Haute, socialist candidate for governor of Indiana, addressed a large gathering of local socialists Saturday night at Odgen hall. Mr. Reynolds attacked both old parties, during the course of his remarks, and stated that socialism is decidedly on the increase.

Introduced by Chairman Marabens as the next governor of Indiana, Mr. Reynolds replied that he would not be the next governor, but the first governor of this state. He declared that Marshall the republicans have had several governors, but the working men and farmers have never had a representative in the gubernatorial chair.

In an interview Mr. Reynolds said that 39,000 socialist votes will be cast in the coming general election in Indiana, against 12,673 in 1910. He also declared that the socialists will elect at least six congressmen to the United States Congress this fall. He also stated that the Roosevelt movement has experienced a slump and that many who left the old party earlier in the campaign are now looking back.

Relating to the presidency, Mr. Reynolds predicted that Woodrow Wilson will be elected, in spite of the scheme of eastern capitalists to send Taft back to the white house.

JACKMAN LAUDS THE WOMEN. Progressive Candidate for Attorney General Speaks to Teddy Men.

"Women should have the right to assist in preparing the world for their children as well as preparing their children for the world," declared Clifford T. Jackman, of Huntington, progressive candidate for attorney general. Mr. Jackman addressed a small gathering of progressives at the assembly room of the court house Saturday night. Plans had been made for a big meeting, but the attendance was cut down, according to the third party leaders, on account of inclement weather.

Mr. Jackman lauded Beveridge and Roosevelt and hailed the latter as the Muses of the twentieth century. He also declared that neither of the old parties are fit to be given control of the national affairs.

During his address Mr. Jackman advocated the plan now in existence to prevent child labor and also made an ardent plea for woman suffrage.

REPORT OF VISITING NURSE.

July and August Show Many Galls on the Nurse for Aid.

A report for the months of July and August from the Visiting Nurse league shows that the need of the nurse's aid is not confined to months demanding fuel and warm clothing. The city has many people who need a help they can only purchase with money or obtain from the visiting nurse. The report is an interesting one and remarks of the secretary quite to the point. In July 187 calls were made; in August the same number. Messages were seven in each month. Electric treatments seven in July and seven in August. The number of baths given in July were eleven and in August thirty-eight. The secretary of the league, Mrs. C. O. Miller, says: In the homes of the poor and distressed, through the services of the nurse, is where our league carries its greatest influence and achieves its best results. Oftentimes repulsed in the first call, yet never discouraged, this nurse has caused even those who, at first did not want her, to long for a second visit. Homes are cleaned and made pure with water, soap and words of good cheer. Needed garments are supplied to the patient, clean, wholesome food provided and necessary nursing furnished. In giving the service of the nurse, the league makes no distinction as to sex, color or creed; anyone unable to pay is cheerfully supplied.

The league depends for its support upon membership fees and free-will offerings from churches, societies and individuals. The membership fees are only twenty-five cents per year and the league would be most happy to welcome into its ranks every person in Fort Wayne who could contribute this amount.

There is an abundance of work for additional nurses and we would be pleased to employ them if our funds were not so low. In fact, at this particular time the treasury is very nearly empty. With cold weather not far off and abundance of work on hand to do, the need of money is so pressing that the officers of the league make this public appeal for help to the kind-hearted citizens of Fort Wayne. While

HAT MADE OF EGYPTIAN LOTUS LEAF AND TRIMMED WITH ITS FLOWERS.

This fascinating little person is not a Parisian belle wearing the latest millinery creation from the workshop of a fashionable chapeau designer of the continental fashion center, but Miss Anne Ellsworth, of Kalamazoo, Mich., in a quaint summer "bonnet" she picked out of Sunset lake, a pretty little body of water a few miles from the city which made very famous.

She has the last word in the art of head robing.

Her perfect hair covering, as attractive as novel, is a leaf out of the famous bed of ancient Egyptian lotus, "the rose of sacred Egypt," which yearly for more than a century has bloomed in a tiny cove in the lake.

Miss Anne plucked this particular leaf on a Saturday and placed it in a tall vase. By Monday the edges had commenced to droop, making as perfect a hat, in shape, as ever came from a shop on the Rue de la Paix. She snipped off the stem. And presto—the picture speaks for itself.

To tempt all maidens to follow to the banks of the far-famed sacred lotus bed in search of nature's millinery shop, the resourceful Miss Anne appeared in public wearing it. And now the burning question in the city of Kalamazoo has resolved itself into a controversy as to whether the art of millinery did not really originate with the ancient Egyptians, having been suggested by the lotus leaf itself. And, moreover, if, perhaps, a hat such as this was not employed by the fascinating Cleopatra to make herself irresistible in the eyes of her "steady," Marc Anthony.

Going still further back in the interesting pages of history, did not Eve wear a home-grown "lid" like Anne's to reduce the cost of living in the Garden of Eden days?

There are not more than half a dozen places in the United States where the sacred Egyptian lotus (nubium speciosum) grows. No one has ever been able to explain satisfactorily how this gorgeous flower of the Nile, with its millinery attachment, came to be transplanted to two baby lakes in far-off Michigan. But thousands of them are there in all their creamy beauty.

The support in the past has always been gratifying, there is urgent need for continued and increased support just now, that this work, the benefit of which is so apparent, and so generally recognized by all, may go on uninteruptedly.

All persons interested will please make remittances to the treasurer, Mrs. Joseph Lohman, No. 336 West Berry street. Any of the members of the league will be glad to accept names for membership and the fee for the same.

MRS. C. O. MILLER, Secretary.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Valeska Suratt in "The Kiss Waltz."

Fresh from its long and prosperous run at the New York Casino, and also at one of the prominent Chicago playhouses, "The Kiss Waltz" with the important metropolitan cast, will be sung at the Majestic theater on Thursday evening. "The Kiss Waltz" is one of the first musical plays to be brought out on Broadway. Its success was immediate and it was heralded as "the dancing show" in New York. The piece was originally done in Vienna where it ran for over a year under the title of "The Love Waltz." The music is by C. M. Ziehrer, composer of Fritz Scheff's "Mlle. Mischief," and the adaptation was done by Edgar Smith.

The play abounds in big and novel dancing numbers and those rare moments of fun when nothing short of an explosion of laughter will give relief. There are two acts. The first shows a hotel on the Riviera and the second the Villa Willeberg. In both scenes there are many pretty girls and displays of handsome costumes.

The principal character is Guido Spino, a handsome composer who falls in love with every pretty woman he meets. He has many opportunities for the ladies at the hotel are simply crazy about him. Zella, Baroness von Barnau, has the affection but she cannot show it. It is arranged that she go to the home of Countess Willeberg where

A legend among the lake folks says that Indians planted the seeds there a hundred years ago, bringing them from the extreme south of Florida. Another story is that the seeds were dropped by migratory birds.

These big, fragrant flowers with their wide-spreading leaves, which gracefully sway and ripple with every undulation of the lake's bosom, stand several feet out of the water, each on a long stem. In general appearance, they are much like a water lily, although several times larger.

In color they are lemon yellow and emit a heavy, intoxicating, oriental fragrance of infinite sweetness that, if breathed long enough, the ancients believed, would transport one to paradise.

The blossoms range in size from ten to twelve inches across when fully open. The leaves are from eighteen to thirty inches. They are cup-shaped on the stem and give the appearance of a sunburst.

Guido is invited. He mistakes the quarry and makes love to the countess, and of course, is discovered by the jealous husband, a flirtatious old count himself. There are fourteen principal characters in the opera, many roles and choruses and a wealth of fashionable costume effects.

VAUGHAN GLASSER IN "THE GRAIN OF DUST."

With the "Progressives," the "Bull Moose," the "Stand Patters" and the varied other political organizations, all telling us of the different and effective methods of curbing the disastrous effects of "Big Business" comes Mr. Vaughan Glaser, with an absolutely new proposition of arriving at the same conclusion; and he demonstrates his method thro' the instrument of David Graham Phillips' novel, "The Grain of Dust," as dramatized by Louis Evans Shipman, and there is no theory about his proposition, he demonstrates the whole matter in a couple of hours so simply and thoroughly that all are convinced that "Big Business" are as easily handled as any adversary to the common weal.

Mr. Glaser as Frederick Norman, gets tossed in the air by the multi-millionaire Burroughs, altho' as a corporation lawyer Norman has protected and made it possible for Burroughs to accumulate the aforesaid millions; Norman when at the end of his resources, forms an association with another multi-millionaire and with his (Norman's) knowledge of corporation law forces Burroughs to the wall and to plead for mercy. So you see altho' Glaser is not a candidate for office, his method is very simple, i. e. make multi-millionaires fight each other and in this way either exterminate them or make them "good multi-millionaires."

"The Grain of Dust" is really one of merit and was used last season as a starring vehicle by Jas. K. Hackett, Mr. Glaser this season having purchased the rights, has enhanced the production so far as possible as to supporting company, elaborate scenic effects, etc. "The Grain of Dust" will be the attraction at the Majestic next Friday and Saturday night with a special Saturday matinee. Mr. Glaser's last appearance in the city was with the "Man Between."

In stitching the seams on the machine, do not stitch through the basting threads, as it will make the latter difficult to draw out. Stitch just inside or just outside. To finish neatly at the wrist, take a strip of crinoline and slip into the sleeve. Baste it in position, leaving a margin of sleeve to turn over the crinoline. Do this while the sleeve is on the outside. Now turn inside out and face with a bias strip of the material or silk. The result will be a smooth fit. If the sleeve had been turned to put in the stiffening the sleeve will probably draw.

Sewing in the sleeve is important. To sew it in correctly draw on the arm, getting the elbow at the right point. Pin the top of the sleeve to the shoulder. The pattern usually indicates the location of the inner seam. But the sleeve does not always set right when this is followed. It should then be moved either above or below the notch on the patterns until the fit is correct.

Amateurs often cut the armhole out too much. Don't be in a hurry to do this. The armhole should be neither tight nor loose, but remember that when the sleeve is sewn in it will measure an inch or more than at first.

LETTING TORTURED CHILDREN INTO THE "KINGDOM OF HEAVEN."

Marvelous New Surgery Restores Health and Happiness by Grafting Sound Bone Onto Diseased Spine.

(By Harry L. Burton.)
New York, Sept. 23.—Tall, dark, earnest Dr. Albee stood on the high, sun-drenched roof of Sea Breeze hospital at Coney Island. All about him swarmed little white iron beds covered with netting.
And on each of these little beds lay a slim, tragic figure of a child—a helpless, tiny child worn to terrible fineness by unceasing chiseling of pain—pain, prodigious and overwhelming.
All of them were strapped to hard, cruel boards from which they could never be unstrapped—in all human likelihood. And at every slightest move the little child faces winced. Tears lay in the corner of almost every baby eye, though brave smiles played about the lips.
Dr. Albee's heart turned sick at the sight.

HARRY IS STRAIGHT AS AN ARROW NOW.

"And of such is the kingdom of heaven?"
The words seemed mockery to him. Dr. Albee laughed to himself. He was scornful of such a kingdom.

Out in the sunlight it was very gay. Birds sang, flowers blew in green gardens and sails spun to the breeze on the sea. In the sands score of happy-faced children ran and danced—healthy children that came into the world with no handicap to joyous living.
"For of such is the kingdom of heaven."

The thought came again to Dr. Albee this time, as he looked at these different children. But he saw now that it was a good thought—this thought of the Master's. And he began to see still farther—that it is our work to help make this kingdom perfect; to help make every little child in it as sound as every other little child.

But how could these incurable little children on the roof of Sea Breeze hospital be made as sound and strong as other children?

A few weeks afterward Dr. Fred H. Albee, young consulting surgeon of the Sea Breeze hospital for tubercular children, performed the first of the operations that, world-eminent physicians say, will overcome at last the greatest enemy of little children—bone tuberculosis—the dire disease thrust upon them before birth by fathers who have not cared, or after birth by unfit food and bad environment.

And what is this great thing that Dr. Albee has discovered—which is to make new hips and spines so rotted that they gnarl tiny bodies into grotesque images of pain?
It is actual bone transplantation!

"SUNNY JIM" WILL STAY STRAPPED TO A BOARD FOR SIX WEEKS, TILL THE NEW BONE HAS KNITTED INTO HIS SPINE.

It consists of cutting live bone from one part of the body and grafting it onto other bones from which dead bone has been cut away!

Out at Sea Breeze hospital this summer Dr. Albee has cut from the shin bones of a full dozen youngsters big pieces of healthy bone and grafted them onto spinal columns that were being slowly eaten away with tuberculosis. And every one of these youngsters is now digging in the sea-sands of the hospital beach, as care-free and as happy as any little child in the world.

And now they belong to the kingdom of heaven!

The first little hunchback—for tuberculosis of the spine curves backs almost double—who came to the hospital to be "grafted," was Harry. Harry is just nine and is as straight as an arrow now.
"But I wasn't always straight like I am now," says Harry. "Last winter I was all crooked. And every time I moved it hurt me. I was all sore inside, and now I ain't sore at all. Dr. Albee fixed me so I can be a carpenter when I grows up."

The last completed case is that of Kenneth, who is scarcely three years old. Doctors thought he would have to go out of the bi, bright, beautiful world before he was six, but now he will not. Instead he plays in the stand all day long with a pail and shovel, and this winter he will go back to his mamma and papa in New York a brand new baby boy!

Just last week Dr. Albee took bone from the leg of six-year-old Jimmie Carnes—"Sunny Jim," they call him at Sea Breeze—and put it into his spinal column. Jimmie is strapped now to a long, straight board and will stay that way for six weeks, until the new bone has completely knitted into his spine. And then—when they take him out of his corset and off the long, hard board—he will not be a little, hunchbacked boy any more, but a straight, lithe lad as God intended he should be.
And Dr. Albee will have added one more jewel to the "kingdom of heaven."

How to Make CATSUPS

Mushroom Catsup.
Break firm, fresh mushrooms into quarters. Put a layer of the broken mushrooms into an earthen vessel. Sprinkle with salt. Then put in some more mushrooms and more salt until the whole quantity has been used. Cover the vessel and set it on the cellar floor for three days, stirring the contents with a wooden spoon three times a day. Then warm the mushrooms, mash them to a pulp and strain through coarse netting, squeezing out all the juice. Boil this for ten minutes and measure. To every pint of the liquor allow a generous teaspoonful of whole peppers and allspice, a blade of mace, two slices of onions, a bay leaf, if you have it, and a little paprika. Put liquor and spices onto the fire. Boil until thick. Strain and cool. Then fill bottles with catsup. Seal.

Tomato Catsup.
Slice eight quarts of unpeeled tomatoes and six white onions. Boil together until soft enough to rub through a colander. Then strain through a sieve and return to the fire with three bay leaves, a tablespoonful each of powdered mace, pepper, cloves, sugar, salt, a half teaspoonful of paprika, and a tablespoonful of celery seed—the last tied up in a small cheesecloth bag. Boil for nearly six hours, stirring often. Remove the bag of celery seed and replace with a pint of vinegar. Bring to a boil again and remove from fire. Bottle and seal when it is cold.

Grape Catsup.
Wash tart grapes. Remove the stems and put the fruit into a kettle with enough water only to prevent scorching. Cook until tender, stirring frequently with a wooden spoon. Then rub a little at a time through a fine colander. After throwing out the seeds and skin, measure the pulp. To each quart and a half of this add a pound of brown sugar, a cupful of white vinegar, a heaping teaspoonful each of ground cinnamon, allspice, mace, salt and white pepper. Also a half teaspoonful of ground cloves. Boil long and steady until the catsup is reduced to less than half the original amount and very thick. Bottle when it is cold. Cork tightly. Cover the corks with sealing wax.

Walnut Catsup.
The walnuts should be half grown. Prick each one all the way through at least three times with a needle. Pack in layers, straining a handful of salt between each layer. Cover the walnuts with cold water. Put a heavy inverted saucer or plate over the jar to keep the walnuts under the brine and leave them for two weeks.

Each day they should be moved around with a wooden spoon or heavy stick to crack them into small pieces. At the end of the two weeks pour off the brine and beat the nuts to a fine pulp, cover them with boiling vinegar and add the brine previously poured off. Measure the liquid and the crushed nuts. Allow for each quart a teaspoonful each of ground cloves and mace, and a tablespoonful each of ground ginger and black pepper. Boil steadily for two hours. Run through a sieve, cool, bottle and seal.

Chutney.
Chop a white cabbage and eight onions. With alternate layers of salt, pack in layers in a crock and let it stand twenty-four hours. Into a pint of vinegar, stir a half pound of brown sugar, a heaping teaspoonful each of tumeric, powdered alum, cinnamon, allspice, mace, black pepper, mustard and celery seed, and heat all to boiling. Pour this liquid over the cabbage and onions and set aside for twenty-four hours longer. Now drain off the liquid; bring again to the boil and pour it again over the pickle. Do this for three mornings. Put liquor and vegetables together in the preserving kettle. Boil for five minutes. Set aside until cold, then pack in jars.

Lunches for School

SURPRISES FOR THE LUNCH BOX.

Always try to have a little surprise in the school lunch box—an extra relish or a sweet—something different from yesterday.

Often times when the mother is making a pie, she can make a little one in the patie pan that can be used the next day for the school lunch. Don't, however, put berries or any juicy filling in these pies, as it will be apt to run out and spoil the entire lunch.

Celery stalks, stuffed with American cheese, which has been grated and mixed with a little salad dressing oftentimes makes a nice relish.

Dates stuffed with nuts or marshmallows are also very nice.

Occasionally put in a bar of sweet chocolate or chocolate with almonds.

White bread and butter sandwiches with just white or brown sugar between are delicious occasionally and a most delectable sandwich is made of toasted baking powder biscuit buttered and spread with scraped maple sugar while hot.

Any kind of muffins can be sliced carefully, toasted and spread with butter, if one find one's stock of bread has given out at lunch box time, and can be filled with jam or chopped canned peaches.

Of course, every mother has her own recipes for cake, but a generous piece of sponge cake will often help complete a school lunch. Such a cake is made of two eggs, one cup of sugar, one cup of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder. Sift baking powder into the flour, add yolks and sugar and beat thoroughly. Add one-third of a cup of hot water, continuing to beat, and the well-beaten whites of the two eggs last. If this cake becomes a little old it can be sliced and toasted and put together with jelly for a sweet sandwich.

Lady fingers with jam spread between is also a novelty for a sweet.

BASEBALL ATHLETICS

PLENTY OF GOOD MATERIAL READY

New Association Expected to Develop Local Athletic Talent.

FIRST MEET SATURDAY

Plenty of good athletic material is ready for the track and field meet on next Saturday at the Fort Wayne Athletic Association, which will be launched and which is expected to develop local talent and create a rivalry and interest that will make the organization permanent and assure that a program will be carried out every season.

A number of associations have been in existence here for several years and have carried on contests among their members, but until the new organization was formed there had been no opportunity to get them all in one big tournament and judge of the relative merits of the city's athletes.

Of the clubs that have joined in the movement the Friars have been in existence since February, 1919, when forty constituted the entire membership. At first a purely social organization, it has increased its membership to 140 and has taken up athletics with marked success in football and basketball, the only two branches they have entered. The call for the athletic association came from the Friars who are responsible for the movement.

Company D was organized before the Spanish-American war and reorganized later and athletes have always pertained in the ranks. They have been encouraged by Capt. Clyde Drisbach, Lieutenant Sharp and Lieut. James R. Bird, himself a basketball player. All have worked hard to get their men interested and to keep alive the love of sports.

Boys of Battery B ought to be in good condition as a result of the program. The Seneca, organized in 1918, comprising only a membership of young men who have given to athletic circles of this city much to be proud of. After a successful season in the city championship, Hiser, one of their stars, won the mile event at the annual Pennsylvania field and track meet this year in a 27. The Turnersville Foresters is one of the oldest and most complete organizations of the city. It has been represented at the annual Turner events for a number of years throughout the country and supplied championship material, has always been prominent in athletic circles and has had a basketball team for the last five years. It has now one of the best athletic directors in the city.

St. Patrick's Lyceum is composed of members of St. Patrick's parish and was organized in 1910 and is prominent in bowling circles and maintains a good basketball team.

The Fort Wayne City Lutheran league has just been organized from the ranks of the Walther League into a permanent athletic association. It will probably have the largest following, drawing from Concordia, Zion's, Emmanuel, St. Paul and the other Lutheran churches of this city.

The Pennsylvania Shop association has just been organized to take part in this season, but for several years it has employed in the big shops have held annual field days and they have the advantage of experience and know which lines their men are most proficient in.

St. Mary's Athletic club has been in existence for about ten years and its membership is limited to St. Mary's parish, but by diligent effort the available material in the parish has been gotten in the ranks.

This club has maintained a good basketball team and last season branched out in public exhibitions which were made successful. The same club will be before the public this season and in the track meeting it hopes to make a good showing. It was one of the first to answer the call for the general organization.

Wabash	11	7	.611
Russ	11	7	.611
Electric	11	7	.611
Wayne Knits	11	7	.611

This shows a good third place and the Western Gas and Wayne Knits will meet it on Saturday. The Rolling Mills team is also in a tie, but will not play it off.

That the Fort Wayne Shop baseball league is composed of loyal players is shown by the fact that all of the clubs have remained intact and finished every game in the last three years.

These players are bound only by their honor as there is no return that justifies the time and effort put into baseball and simply a desire to fulfill their obligation has kept them in line through three seasons of hard work.

All of them have been successful in that two have already been of material assistance to the playground fund and the third will yield a good return to the city.

During the season that closed with the games on Saturday there was a hot race for a time between the Pennsylvania club and the Rollins. Manager Al Ringle's machine worked well all year and he thought it lost the Saturday game it had led enough to insure the pennant. This is the third time for this club, due in a measure to the fact that it has a strong lineup. A seasoned pitcher and Joe Corbett has developed into a dangerous hurler. Johnny All's arm crippled the Rolling Mills team early in the season and by the time Joe Lill became eligible to play the club was back in the race and couldn't overcome the handicap.

All of the players and the owners are hard workers and the good showing of the league is due in a great measure to the intelligent administration of its affairs. The scores of the Saturday games follow:

NEITHER HAS MISSED A GAME.

Two Big Leaguers Have Stuck Through the Season for Their Clubs.

Duffy Lewis has not missed an inning or part of an inning in the 142 games the New York Yankees have played this season. He plans to finish the season without one tardy or absent mark.

Clyde Milgum has played in all of Washington's 145 games. It is a record which of these men has been of the most value to his team. But there is no question as to the relative value of such a player to a team compared to the great number of stars who are in and out from one cause or another.

"I have been hurt a lot of times this season, but I have played just the same," said Lewis. "My knees have been raw most of the season from diving after low-line drives."

EBBETTS BUYS NEWARK CONTROL.

Takes Fifty Shares of Stock and Says That He Will Buy More.

New York, Sept. 23.—President Charles Ebbetts of the Brooklyn National league club Friday afternoon announced that he had purchased control of the Newark club of the International league. He bought fifty shares of stock in the Newark organization from H. Clay Smith and offered to buy the interest of any other stockholders who care to sell. There are 225 shares in the Newark club, but they are so scattered that, with what Ebbetts already owns, he will be in command of the team.

RAIN PREVENTED GAMES.

Rain stopped all Trolley league games scheduled for yesterday and the season closed with the clubs in the same position they held after the games of September 15. Auburn and Kendallville will play two games more, one in each city, and the other clubs will book no more games.

Beginning next Sunday the Shamrocks will stage a series of three games with the Macchollas for the city championship.

BIG SPECIAL FEATURE ON THE WORLD'S SERIES.

HUGH JENNINGS.

The Daily Sentinel announces a big feature, which will commence tomorrow on the sport page.

Hugh Jennings, manager of the Detroit club, has written five stories from the standpoint of a baseball man, comparing the Giants and Red Sox, who will meet in the world's series.

Jennings, an intimate friend of McGraw, a manager of the McGraw type, has battled against the victorious Red Sox all season. No one is better qualified to tell the strong and weak points of the clubs.

The first story is an estimate of the managers—McGraw and Stahl.

The second compares the pitchers.

The third deals with the catchers.

The fourth compares the infielders and outfielders.

The fifth picks the man who will be the hero of the series—and he will be a surprise to every reader.

MANUFACTURERS' LEAGUE TO MEET.

A meeting of the bowlers of the Manufacturers' league has been called for the 23rd at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

CARSON SAYS HE WILL QUIT GAME

Adds That He is for Heilbroner for President of the Central.

MEET HERE IN WEEK

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 23.—If Louis Heilbroner of Fort Wayne, wants to be president of the Central league next year, he had better get ready for it. Dr. Frank R. Carson, present speaker at the helm of the Central wheel, "I understand he has said he will be a candidate for the office in 1921, and if that is all there is in the way of his candidacy he doesn't need to assist on my account—for I am positively through."

The fate of the dozen-club circuit is already sealed, in fact has been since early in the season when the plan was laid and found wanting in many respects.

"The Central league, however, is in a good condition," continued President Carson, "and it is likely that the meeting of directors and stockholders will be held in Fort Wayne about September 30. I do not know at this time what will be done, if we knew there would be no necessity for holding the meeting. But my decision regarding the presidency of the Central league is final."

It is generally known that the greater number of clubs in the Central wheel have been only on a seasonal basis, and Dr. Carson, who ought to know and does know more about Central league affairs, says it is in a good condition.

"This much at least is assured."

There will be a Central league next season.

It will not contain twelve clubs.

The president's chair will be occupied by some man other than Dr. Frank R. Carson.

Dr. Carson is much irritated by the discussion of what he has announced his retirement. But this fact remains that he has entered the automobile business and is making plans which would almost preclude any possibility of his guiding the Central circuit in 1921.

CANTON WILL BE IN THE CENTRAL

President Yost Says Only Three Cities Beat His in Attendance.

GOOD BASE BALL TOWN

(Canton News-Democrat.)
The realistic dreams of a rare-bit fender have nothing on the slumber fancies uncorked Friday by a South Bend writer. Maybe it was because it was Friday, or there may be some other excuse, but if there is one some one has to think fast to find it. Said doleful drops Canton to the reorganized Central league but the fact that Canton should be dropped and South Bend retained caused the merriment.

In coping out the eight-club league to succeed Carson's 12-club idea, the following clubs will hear the gong ring, the writer says: Fort Wayne, South Bend, Grand Rapids, Dayton, Springfield, Wheeling, Erie and Youngstown.

Canton is left in the cold. Terre Haute will struggle to land in the Three-club league. He doesn't know what will be done, if we knew there would be no necessity for holding the meeting. But my decision regarding the presidency of the Central league is final."

CENTENNIAL OF HISTORIC FIGHT

Anniversary of Mississinewa is Observed at Marion.

INDIANA NEWS NOTES

Marion, Ind., Sept. 23.—Five thousand persons participated in the centennial celebration of the battle of the Mississinewa at the National military home in this city yesterday. The principal address was made by former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, whose speech dwelt chiefly with the war of 1812, and the part Indiana contributed to it. Other speakers were Colonel George B. Lockwood, of Marion; Colonel J. C. Powell, of Logansport, and W. C. Bailey and Charles A. Cole, of Peru. Historical sketches of the battle were presented by Major George W. Steele, governor of Marion National Military home, and Senator John T. Strange.

CATCHES A SAFE-BLOWER.

Indianapolis, Officer Lauds Crackman at His Work.

Indianapolis, Sept. 23.—Dashing into the rear of a saloon early yesterday morning, Arthur Fields, a policeman with drawn revolver compelled a safe blower caught in the act to surrender and safely landed his man in jail. The policeman in approaching the saloon saw a man dart away and in passing saw the safe blower at work on his knees before the safe. At the jail the prisoner gave the name of George Riden, of Ben Davis, Indiana. In his pockets the police found a bottle of nitroglycerin and a "jimmy" along with fuses and caps. A large amount of money was contained in the safe the saloonkeeper later stated.

ROBBERY AT LAFAYETTE.

Crackmen Touch Up Artificial Ice Company for Cash and Checks.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 23.—Burglars entered the office of the Lafayette Artificial Ice company and robbed the safe of $600 in money and $1,000 in checks. The robbery was not discovered until late yesterday when George Balf, secretary of the company went to the office. The safe door was open and it appeared that the robbers must have known the combination of the safe. Bloodhounds belonging to Officer Frank Younger, of the police department, were placed on the trail and they went to a barn near the plant from which it is presumed the burglars were driven away in an automobile.

SON-IN-LAW USES HATCHET.

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 23.—George Greer, 54, probably will die as a result of having been struck yesterday by a hatchet in the hands of his son-in-law, Melvin Denny. The men had quarreled, it is said, and Greer went to Denny's home and found Denny splitting kindling. The quarrel was renewed and Denny, it is alleged, struck his father-in-law with the hatchet. Greer was taken to his home, where it was found that his skull was fractured. Denny was placed in the county jail without bond.

JOKE CAUSES DEATH.

Franklin, Ind., Sept. 23.—As a result of a joke a few days ago, Carl Goff, of this city, is dead. Charles Roberts jokingly pointed a rifle at Goff, not thinking it was loaded, when the gun went off, striking Goff in the abdomen. Roberts was arrested and was released on $500 bond until the death, when he was re-arrested and placed in jail to await trial. The men were good friends.

ROBBED IN SLEEPING CAR.

Indianapolis, Sept. 23.—George J. Schwab, of Evansville, Ind., is poorer by $200 and a watch valued at $100 as the result of the robbery of a Pullman sleeping car on a switch near Capitol avenue and the Indianapolis Union Railway Tracks early yesterday morning. Several other persons lost various other amounts.

DeLoach, until two years ago superintendent of the Hanna-Bruckner-ridge company of this city, with a Chicago real estate man, were the victims of a sensational hold-up in Chicago Sunday. LIMA MAN WAS KILLED BY TRAIN Dead Body of John Burghoff Discovered on Pennsylvania Tracks.

DRAFTING DEPT. IN NEW QUARTERS
William Stephan and Force Vacate Rooms They Occupied 20 Years.

While at the throttle of a westbound freight train on the Pennsylvania at 5 o'clock this morning, Engineer William E. Dameyer discovered a man lying at the side of the tracks at what are called the "brewery" tracks in Lima, O. Notice was given the city officials and an investigation developed the fact that the body was that of John Burghoff, an employee of the Lima Locomotive works. It was badly mangled, having evidently been run over by a number of cars. Just how long the body had lain there and what train had run over it none is able to say. Neither have the local railway officials been advised as to the age and family connections of the deceased. The train on which Engineer Dameyer was riding when he discovered the dead man was in charge of Conductor Ed Mahoney.

With Mr. Stephan to the new quarters went F. W. Stephan, B. Harber, Otto Leichman, B. Bley, R. F. Stephan and K. Lorraine. The old drafting rooms are being fitted up for Chief Car Inspector O. J. Parks and will be occupied immediately. With Mr. Parks will go Harry Yergy, J. H. Hunt, N. L. Gott, Charles Lucas, Henry W. Ropa and Walter King. Mr. Parks' old quarters in the central part of the south side of the second story of the building are being occupied by C. R. Branson, mechanical engineer in charge of testing, and P. H. Goda, Walter Hamilton and W. H. Sherbondy, who are associated with him in the work.

INTERIOR VIEW OF PENNSYLVANIA AIR BRAKE INSTRUCTION CAR

The Pennsylvania air brake instruction car, represented in the above picture, went into service this morning at Allegheny, Pa. The car, which had been here about a year while Capt. H. M. Deihl, the air brake instructor, was engaged in other special work for the company, was sent to Allegheny last Friday and Captain Deihl left for that city yesterday afternoon to be ready to open school this morning. This was the first air brake instruction car owned and operated by a railroad in America and Captain Deihl was the first man to have charge of one. Air brakes had been in use several years prior to the inauguration of the present system of instructing men in the care and use of them, but the instructions were given on the engines, in the shops and elsewhere, either by representatives of the Westinghouse company, the builders of the air brake, or by railway representatives who had been previously instructed by the representatives of the manufacturer. The Pennsylvania air brake car was put into service in 1894. At that time it was equipped for six cars, five freight and one passenger. It now has the air brake equipment of a fifty car train—passenger and freight—and the apparatus is so arranged that it can be operated in sections to suit the convenience of the instructor and the class receiving the instructions. A recent addition to the equipment is the latest device for passenger train control, similar to the equipment on the eighteen-hour trains of the Pennsylvania and other lines. During the twenty years of his service as an air brake instructor, Captain Deihl has probably had 50,000 men in his car as students. When the instruction car was first put in service and for several years afterwards there was no car on the Southwest, or "Panhandle" system, and Captain Deihl made two trips over the lines which make up that system, each trip consuming several months. His present trip will be over the Northwest and possibly over the Central system, which was recently a part of the Northwest. He will hold two sessions each day and in each class there will be from fifteen to twenty-five men—engineers, firemen, conductors, flagmen, brakemen, car inspectors, shopmen and all others whose duties are connected with the handling of trains or cars in the yards or on the road and the men in the round house and shops who are in any way connected with the repair work or care of air brakes. On the Northwest system the towns and cities at which stops will be made and schools conducted are: Allegheny, Crestline, Conway, Alliance, New-castle, Ashtabula, Erie, Youngstown, Cleveland, Wellsville, Bellaire and Chicago. He will remain in each place as long as there are men to be instructed, which will be from four to six weeks. If Captain Deihl is sent over the Central system, he will hold schools in Toledo, Columbus and O'Neill in addition to the cities previously mentioned and the trip will consume about eighteen months. In order that the instructor may have opportunity to look after some other matters connected with his work and to visit his family, no class work will be done on Saturdays. Captain Deihl is one of the old railway men of the city at least in point of service. He began his career as an apprentice in the shops of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western at Scranton, Pa., in the spring of 1880, and with the exception of the time he was a soldier in the war of the rebellion and during his service with the city in the capacity of chief of police and marshal, he has been continuously in railroad work. He came to Fort Wayne in 1886 to take employment with the Pennsylvania and four years later, when the Westinghouse air brake was being introduced on the Western division of the Pennsylvania, Captain Deihl was placed at the head of the department. He assisted in placing air brakes on engine 109, the first locomotive to be thus equipped. This engine was in the passenger service between this city and Chicago with Tony Kelker at the throttle and for many years it held the record for speed in America.

CAPT. HUGH M. DEIHL,
First Railroad Traveling Air Brake Instructor.

Ventriloquism is not confined solely to the human race. There are many birds whose notes it is almost impossible "to place." Take the cornerake, with its harsh "crake, crake!" GARRETT MAN IN THE NEGRO CLUB

Said He Was Stranger But Had No Trouble Buying the Drinks.

CITY COURT DOCKET

Harry Jones is a Cincinnati negro who has been working at Garrett for a few weeks and although he was never in Fort Wayne until last night he had no trouble buying drinks at one of the negro clubs.

Just where he got it he couldn't remember, but he said he spent 50 or 60 cents and although he was not a member of the club no questions were asked of him. A week ago the attention of the police was called to the gambling in one of the negro clubs, but no arrests were made. Jones was let go as he could not have identified the place or the man who sold to him, but his testimony was direct and left no doubt about his having gotten drunk there.

The Other Cases.

From a profit standpoint the docket was a good one as when it was all over $155 was left in the hands of City Clerk Jeffries in payment of fines. Jeanette Myers, former inmate of a house of ill-repute, and a man caught with her in a raid, paid $100 of this, as each was fined $40 and costs.

Paul Porter, charged with riding a motorcycle at a rate exceeding the speed limit, was fined $5 and costs.

The case against Louis Kohari, charged with stealing $5 from the register at the Daffner bakery, was continued indefinitely.

John Roach, John Costello, James Overly and John Sparks, all plain drunks, were released as a contractor was waiting for them ready to give them work.

Owen Cleary was fined $1 and costs for kicking Cleon Garrett in the course of a fight between some small boys. Cleary's son was in the rumput.

William Moler, Hugh Patterson, August Willig, William McBride, Elza Everts, John Kelly, Jim Jones and Jack Johnson were each fined $1 and costs for public intoxication.

CLEAR NAME OF MURDER CHARGE

Mrs. Epps, Who Served 23
Years in Prison, Sees
Hope in Confession.

OLD CASE RECALLED

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 23.—Mrs. Charlotte Epps, the woman who amazed Huntington by appearing here suddenly with the statement that a dying confession of a murder, for which she served twenty-three years in prison, had been made by the victim's own brother, injected an added sensation into the situation, with open intimations that the entire estate of her husband had been stolen by relatives while she was incarcerated.

Mrs. Epps was convicted in 1883 and sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of her husband, whom she is alleged to have poisoned to gain his property. She was paroled six years ago by Governor Hanly.

"He had money, lots of it," said the woman in speaking of her murdered husband, "but heaven knows I never sought nor did I ever get a penny of it. He had a good farm, a big farm, and many times he showed me gold and paper, and I know he had much money in the bank. Never Signed Away Rights.

"Where is it now? I never signed a paper that deprived me of my property rights as a wife. I never received a cent of all the gold I know my husband possessed. I am free now, but I am forced to depend upon the charity of my relatives for a home, for clothes.

"I married John Epps in the fore part of the year of 1882. His mother had just died and he and his half-brother, Ed Mise, were alone in the house. Relatives and friends who sought his money advised him not to marry me, but John realized their intentions and we were married. I think, in February. At all times Ed Mise, who recently died, was picking at John to deed him all of his property, as he (Ed) said he was older and had better judgment. This John refused to do.

"We had been married but a few months, when one day John went to cut corn. About 11 o'clock, in the morning he came home, saying that he was too sick to work, and he immediately went to bed. I cared for him as tenderly as any one could have done and had the best physicians possible, but in a few days he died. I lived at the house for two weeks after his death, until one day Sheriff Bowman came after me with a warrant for my arrest on the charge of poisoning my own husband. I went with him and was put in the Huntington county jail.

Sentenced for Life.

"In November my trial was held, and, although I maintained my innocence, they found me guilty on circumstantial evidence and sentenced me to prison for life. It was just about Thanksgiving day when Sheriff Bowman took me to Indianapolis, where I was lodged in the Industrial School for Women and Girls.

"No one suffered as I did in those years. No, I suffered no mistreatment, for I obeyed everything I was told to do and the attendants gave me all the cheer they could in trying to obtain a pardon for me. I served twenty-three years and six long months in that place.

"Recently I heard that Edward Mise had died and that he made a complete confession before he died. Acting on the impulse I immediately came to this city with a desire to find recourse against my persecutors. I have taken the advice of attorneys and will at least fight to clear my name."

John Epps died in 1882 rather mysteriously. A short time after the burial the body was exhumed and unmistakable traces of poison found in the viscera. Criminal proceedings were begun and Mrs. Epps was indicted by the grand jury. She was convicted of murder in the first degree.

The conviction was obtained through circumstantial evidence, it being the contention of the state that the crime was committed to gain possession of Epps' estate.

PIG GOT THE MILK.

Had Habit of Beating Farmer to the Com.

Grant, Mich., Sept. 22.—August D. Giles, living on his farm three miles west of here, believes that when he finds that his cows are not giving the usual amount of milk at the morning milking that it is time to make an investigation.

Recently Mrs. Giles complained that there was too great a difference between the amount of milk received from the cows in the morning and that of the night. Giles at once became busy and by the means of a stealthy trip to the barnyard at the break of day solved the mystery.

When the cows were in the field or pasture during the day they were the only occupants of the field, but at night other animals shared the barnyard with the cows. Hence the cause of the trouble.

One of the fattest pigs was the thief. Mr. Giles states that the cows would stand more quietly and allow the pig to take the milk than they have ever stood for a man to do the work. Giles says that pig is now behind prison bars and will get the ax this fall.

WHEN IS A HERRING?

It Is a Question of What It Is After It Is a Sardine.

Washington, Sept. 23.—"Is a herring a herring after it is put in a sardine can, or is it a sardine?" is one of the problems at the treasury department.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis is trying to decide whether a herring is a herring if it comes to this country boxed as a sardine. At first Mr. Curtis was inclined to give an offhand decision, but after looking into the matter has come to the conclusion that he had better wait a while.

The tariff duty on a sardine is much higher than on a herring. Many of the "sardines" that come to this country from Norway and Sweden are really herrings, and the importers object to paying sardine rates.

This question promises to become as famous as "If a herring and a half coat a cent and a half, how many teeth has an anchovy?"

THIS LIGHTNING CUTS UP JINKS

Turns Oregon Milk Into Cheese and Bolt Splits Cord of Wood.

IT WAS A CURIOSITY

Portland, Ore., Sept. 23.—Milkmen and joy riders were in luck here, for they were treated to one of the most brilliant electrical storms in the history of the northwest.

It seems that the unsentimental person employed by the department of agriculture to make books on the local climate from time to time had gone home some hours earlier, wearied by a week of hot and hard work. Which, of course, left the old weather wagon without a chauffeur, janitor or head waiter. The rough house in the mixing chamber started soon after the cafes and roadhouses had stopped selling property sandwiches as square meals and were serving the beer and highballs in monogrammed coffee cups.

The first trouble with the weather engine was a fusillade of heavy backfiring. The great masses of black clouds piling up in the western foothills seemed to have an awful load on, more than they could carry, and began spilling the lightning all over the first ward. The thunder clutched was taking the hills on the high gear and full speed ahead. For a half hour the rattley-banging kept up and the lightning sizzled and sputtered.

It was plain that the water wagon was none of your old-fashioned models, but one of the new 1913 self-starting styles that doesn't need any driver to crank the engine.

The artillery kept up almost incessantly for an hour and a half, and great sheets and shafts of bluish white lightning rent and twisted the angry clouds into all sorts of fantastic contortions.

No particular damage was done, but it was a spectacle that deserved more than a one-night stand even in the off season. Numerous truthful persons have reported a variety of freakish stunts negotiated by the lightning.

It struck a Swiss cheese sandwich and bored it full of holes and pulled the cap off a bottle of ginger ale out at one of the Linton road taverns.

It struck a light switch (presumably blonde) in Council Crest and left a perceptible odor of burning hair for two hours around the place.

It slipped a bolt into a dairyman's milk can, out on the Barr road and left nothing but a ball of cottage cheese in the bottom of the receptacle.

It split a cord of wood in front of a new house on Villamette Heights and hurled most of it into the basement.

PROTEST MOVE TO KILL INCURABLE

Inmates of Home Say Mrs. Harris' Plea Should Not Prevail.

MANY TALK ABOUT IT

Philadelphia, Sept. 23.—The plea of Mrs. Sarah Harris, of New York, who believes the state should put to death persons who are hopelessly crippled or diseased, was not received with sympathy by the inmates of the Philadelphia Home for Incurables.

Mrs. Carrie Irwin, who has been at the home for nearly twenty years; thinks such a plan would be barbarous and cowardly.

"I suppose every cripple and every person afflicted with an incurable disease must feel deeply sympathetic in reading the pathetic story of Mrs. Harris," she said. "She has been helpless for seven years and she has said the state should, or society should, have some way to end the agony of such as she without blame to anybody. I do not agree with her. We are pretty much like anybody else. We want to live as long as we can."

Miss Minnie Jones, who is fifty, and has been helpless since she was a child, agreed with Mrs. Irwin. "It is all foolishness," she said. "We want to live just as much as you strong people do. Life at its worst is sweet and no amount of suffering should make us want to cut short our allotted time here. No life is strong in the weakest of us."

Miss A. E. Graham, matron in charge of the Philadelphia home, declared cases where incurables really want to die are rare. She said she had seen women at the home who did not want to live, but that the object of the institution was to make their days worth living and that even the worst cases could be made bearable with scientific handling.

"I think it would be a very small minority of cripples and incurables, no matter how serious their cases, who would be willing to have the state step in and end their lives," she added.

Japan has more telephones than all the rest of Asia.

STOP FOREST FIRES AND END FLOODS AND PROVIDE HOMES FOR THOUSANDS.

Upper—Typical mountain watershed, one which fire has been extended for forty years. Water is crystal pure, soil thick, moss and "duff" or forest litter deep and spongy. Flow of stream varies little during the summer and fall.

Lower—Result of fires set after logging. No young trees. Chaparral excludes growth of new timber, and does not absorb moisture to any extent. Surface, between brush, hard and barren. Floods start from these great areas.

California has 5,000,000 acres of land, there is no further chance that the forest will reproduce itself. The state has 19,200,000 acres of forest lands not yet destroyed by the flames. This 30,000 square miles of wooded territory can be made to produce as thick and valuable a sponge of forest litter during the next fifty years, according to State Forester G. M. Romans, that the streams of California, or any other state, will be fed almost evenly the year around. Domestic water supply in hundreds of towns will be purified. Irrigation will be made possible in enough territory now worthless, to support half a million farmers. The washing of gravel and silt into the rivers will cease. Navigation on the larger streams will be conserved and extended.

The big change that will bring these benefits will be the keeping out of fires from the forest area for a few decades.

Romans is asking the next California legislature to spend $37,500 a year for the next two years to employ fire guards and to thereby test out his claim.

WAS RELIC OF OLDEN DAYS.

Oxen Yoke Bearing Date of 1850 Found on Old Trail.

Placerville, Cal., Sept. 23.—Campers near the summit of the Sierra Nevada discovered a relic of "the days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49." It is a yoke for oxen and was lying near the long-abandoned emigrant trail.

Over this trail came thousands of persons from the eastern states and foreign shores. Along the almost obliterated trail are still to be seen remnants of pioneer schooners, here and there a rough hewed tombstone, each in itself a chapter in the life of some pioneer.

The yoke has stamped on it a date, "1850," and several initials which the elements have made indecipherable. The yoke was made of oak and has withstood the rains and snows of sixty-two winters remarkably well.

It will be placed in the Native Sons' home at Colusa as a part of the collection of "days of '49" curios.

SHE'S 104; FIRST ILLNESS.

Mrs. McKissick Spends Her Birthday in Bed.

Philadelphia, Sept. 23, Friday: the thirteenth, proved the nemesis of Mrs. Rebecca McKissick, of No. 535 North Forty-seventh street, who was forced to take to her bed with real illness for the first time in the 104 years of her life. Mrs. McKissick celebrated her 104th birthday in bed.

Only four weeks ago Mrs. McKissick issued a challenge to any woman of more than fifty years to go through an endurance race with her. The race was to consist of a dash up the 250 steps that lead from the ground to the tower of the city hall.

"This is the first day in my life that I have spent in bed," said the aged woman, "with the exception of when my children were born."

SURVIVES UNDER WATER LONG TIME

Physicians Work Two Hours to Bring Life to School Teacher.

BUT THEY SUCCEED

Alive and well, after having been practically given up as dead from drowning, is the remarkable experience of Miss Dora Miller, twenty, a New York school teacher, who is spending her vacation at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I.

Miss Miller was under water for five minutes and was revived after two and a half hours' work by two physicians. The latter say that they never knew of a person responding to treatment after being so long submerged.

With her sister, Miss Miller was bathing in the harbor when the latter stepped into a deep hole. William Hayes and Reuben Gilderleese, attracted by the cries of the teacher's twelve-year-old brother, dived for her several times, but failed to rescue her. After she had gone down the third time Max Wexler dived, fully clothed, and brought the unconscious woman to the surface.

Drs. G. P. Sward and A. S. Henderson tried in vain to revive her on the beach. Then they lifted her into Dr. Sward's automobile and raced with her to his office in Huntington, L. I. As the machine sped along, Dr. Sward driving, Dr. Henderson resorted to artificial respiration. The treatment was continued after the physician's home was reached, both doctors being nearly exhausted. Then the patient came to life.

CLIMB IN LIVING COST IS SET OUT

Steady Advance Disclosed
by Labor Bureau's Investigation.

FIGURES ARE GIVEN

Washington, Sept. 23.—The most marked upward trend of the cost of living is disclosed in the federal bureau of labor's report of an investigation of prices for the past ten years conducted in the important industrial centers of thirty-two states. Fifteen most important articles of food, as well as coal, comprising two-thirds of a workingman's needs, were investigated. In many cities the investigators gathered statements of merchants on the cost of living and specimens of these are published in the report.

On June 15, 1912, the report shows, fourteen of the fifteen articles of food were higher than a year before, and ten had advanced in the past ten years more than 50 per cent over the average retail prices for the ten-year period 1900-1909.

Potatoes Most; Sugar Least.

During the last decade prices of potatoes changed most and sugar the least. Their advances were 111.9 and 8.5 per cent, respectively. During the last year, bacon, which decreased just one-tenth of one per cent, was the only one of the fifteen principal articles of food that showed a decline in price, while nine of the fifteen advanced more than 10 per cent, varying from 2.1 per cent for milk to 18.6 for round steak. Of the fifteen only eggs, butter, milk and sugar were lower, but the price of three of these four is normally lower during summers than during winters.

Specimens of the statements of merchants in various cities, published in the report, follow:

New York—"Meats in general are so high that if prices continue much longer will be obliged to close up business. Have already lost about $200 since advance in prices."

Chicago—"Robbing price on flour has advanced 80 cents per barrel and unless there is a decline in the near future no fall prices will advance."

Baltimore—"If the present high prices prevail much longer in the wholesale market, I do not know what will become of the retail dealers."

Beef in Boston.

Boston—"Cheap sirloins are so high and poor that I am not cutting any at present. Both grades of cattle have gone up and the above prices just about let me out without profit." (A second) "Beef, especially on cheaper cuts, 10 to 20 cents higher." (A third) "The high price of meats is causing us to close our place of business on or about July 1."

New Haven—"Beginning this week we will advance two cents a pound on all meats, as we are paying the highest price for beef and lamb in my time. I cannot say the reason; the jobber blames the farmer; the farmer blames the high price of corn."

(A second) "We paid June 17, 1912, cents a pound for rumps and rounds and 11 1/2 cents a pound for chunks of beef, the highest price in the history of our business."

Salt Lake City—"Everything seems to be at the top, but nothing shows any decline."

Remarks of Merchants.

Remarks of merchants accompany the price reports for May 15 told the same story. These are examples:

Boston—"Probably this is the last month we will be in the provision business. The high prices of meats are driving us out. We have been in business fifteen years, but must get out before we are put out."

Fall River—"The high prices of meats have cut our meat business almost in two. The cheaper cuts, which we ordinarily sell for 6 to 10 cents a pound, now we have to get 10 to 14 cents."

Atlanta—"The wholesale cost of fresh meats, flour and butter has advanced, but we still are holding at old prices."

Indianapolis—"Owing to the high price of feed, the milk supply this month is the lowest for May on record."

A second—"Meat prices have made a sharp advance owing to the scarcity in the medium grades of meat and we have been compelled to handle higher priced meats."

Milwaukee—"We were compelled to raise our prices of beef because of the raise in the wholesale prices."

Los Angeles—"The decline of price on potatoes is due to speculators losing their grip on the market. Shippers have arrived from other states and as new potatoes will come in freely in a few weeks they had to let go."

Memphis—"I have paid more for meats this year than I ever paid since I have been in business. I can't see any change for sometime to come."

Cincinnati—"The recent floods have sent cattle to market before their maturity and grain being the highest in years, has had the tendency to give us the highest meat we have handled in years. May 15 we paid 8 1/2 cents a pound for steer cattle; ten years ago 5 1/2 cents."

Pittsburg—"Good beef is scarce and high and is cause of driving other meat up. Long, severe winter and high price of grain supposed to be reason."

Portland—"Raise of prices for beef and pork is due to shortage of stock."

Showing in Food Prices.

This was the showing made for the food prices in the last year, according to the report, on the foods investigated:

Decrease in prices: Smoked bacon, 1 per cent.

Increase in prices: Fresh milk, 2.4; smoked milk, 2.7; hens, 3.5; granulated sugar, 6; Irish potatoes, 1.6; wheat flour, 10.7; pork chops, 11.2; pure lard, 11.3; strictly fresh eggs, 11.8; corn meal, 12.7; creamery butter, 13.3; sirloin steak, 17.1; rib roast, 17.5; round steak, 18.6.

The advance during the decade, comparing the price June 15 last with the average for the ten years, was as follows: Granulated sugar, 8.5 per cent; strictly fresh eggs, 26.1; fresh milk, 32.9; creamery butter, 33.3; wheat flour, 39.3; pure lard, 55.3; hens, 54.1; sirloin steak, 59.3; smoked ham, 61.3; corn meal, 63.7; rib roast, 63.8; round steak, 64; pork chops, 66; smoked bacon, 66.7; Irish potatoes, 11.9.

Coal Has Advanced.

Coal has advanced considerably in some cities. The price on April 15, as compared with a year before, was higher for Pennsylvania anthracite, stove

DAVENPORT

To enjoy this amazingly low price you must make your selection Saturday. Only 50 for immediate delivery.

(Orders taken in excess of 50 pieces will be filled in two or three weeks)

THE PRICE and the GUARANTEE of Satisfaction

This special sale of these high grade Davenports is the direct result of an enormous purchase made by our 28 co-operative stores from the big factories—the largest manufacturers of high grade Davenports in the world. Not a Davenport turned out by this mammoth concern that is not guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction in the fullest sense of the word. In the case of these five different styles of Davenports in this sale, we have particular instructions to go as far as we like in our guarantee. We merely mention this to show you what perfect confidence this store and the manufacturers have in the quality of these Davenports.

The Quality Unsurpassed

The illustration shows you what magnificent Davenports these are. To improve them in any way in the construction, covering or springs is absolutely impossible. You get all the beauty of finish, all the sturdiness of construction, all the points of excellence ordinarily found only in goods at $75 and up. We want to impress you with this. It's important that you do not confuse these Davenports with the cheap imitations so numerous at this low price.

Two Sets of Springs

These Davenports have two sets of springs, both of the highest grade. The one covered by the upholstery is the finest coil spring used in Davenport construction, the other is a perfect bed spring—so that in whichever capacity the Davenport is used, you will get out of it a maximum of comfort and satisfaction.

Upholstered in Spanish Morocoline

We have selected this handsome dark brown Spanish Morocoline because of its supremely remarkable wearing qualities. It cannot be distinguished from real leather, and often wears much better. It's this quality of resisting wear and always looking fresh and new that makes a bit with every observing buyer.

The Terms—$2.00 Cash—Balance Pay as You Like

Can you let a chance like this go by when in our usual fashion we not only have made a surprisingly low price, but have added to this terms of the most convenient sort. We want you to enjoy these Davenports in your own home, while you're paying for them. If this sale of Davenports at this price and these terms don't swamp us with orders, then there is no merit in value giving, no appreciation of real service—but we know that this remarkable offer is going to create the most enthusiastic buying this or any other store has ever seen. You'll do well to come early. Might just as well be among the fortunate 50 who get their Davenports at once.

Imitated, Yes, But NEVER Equaled

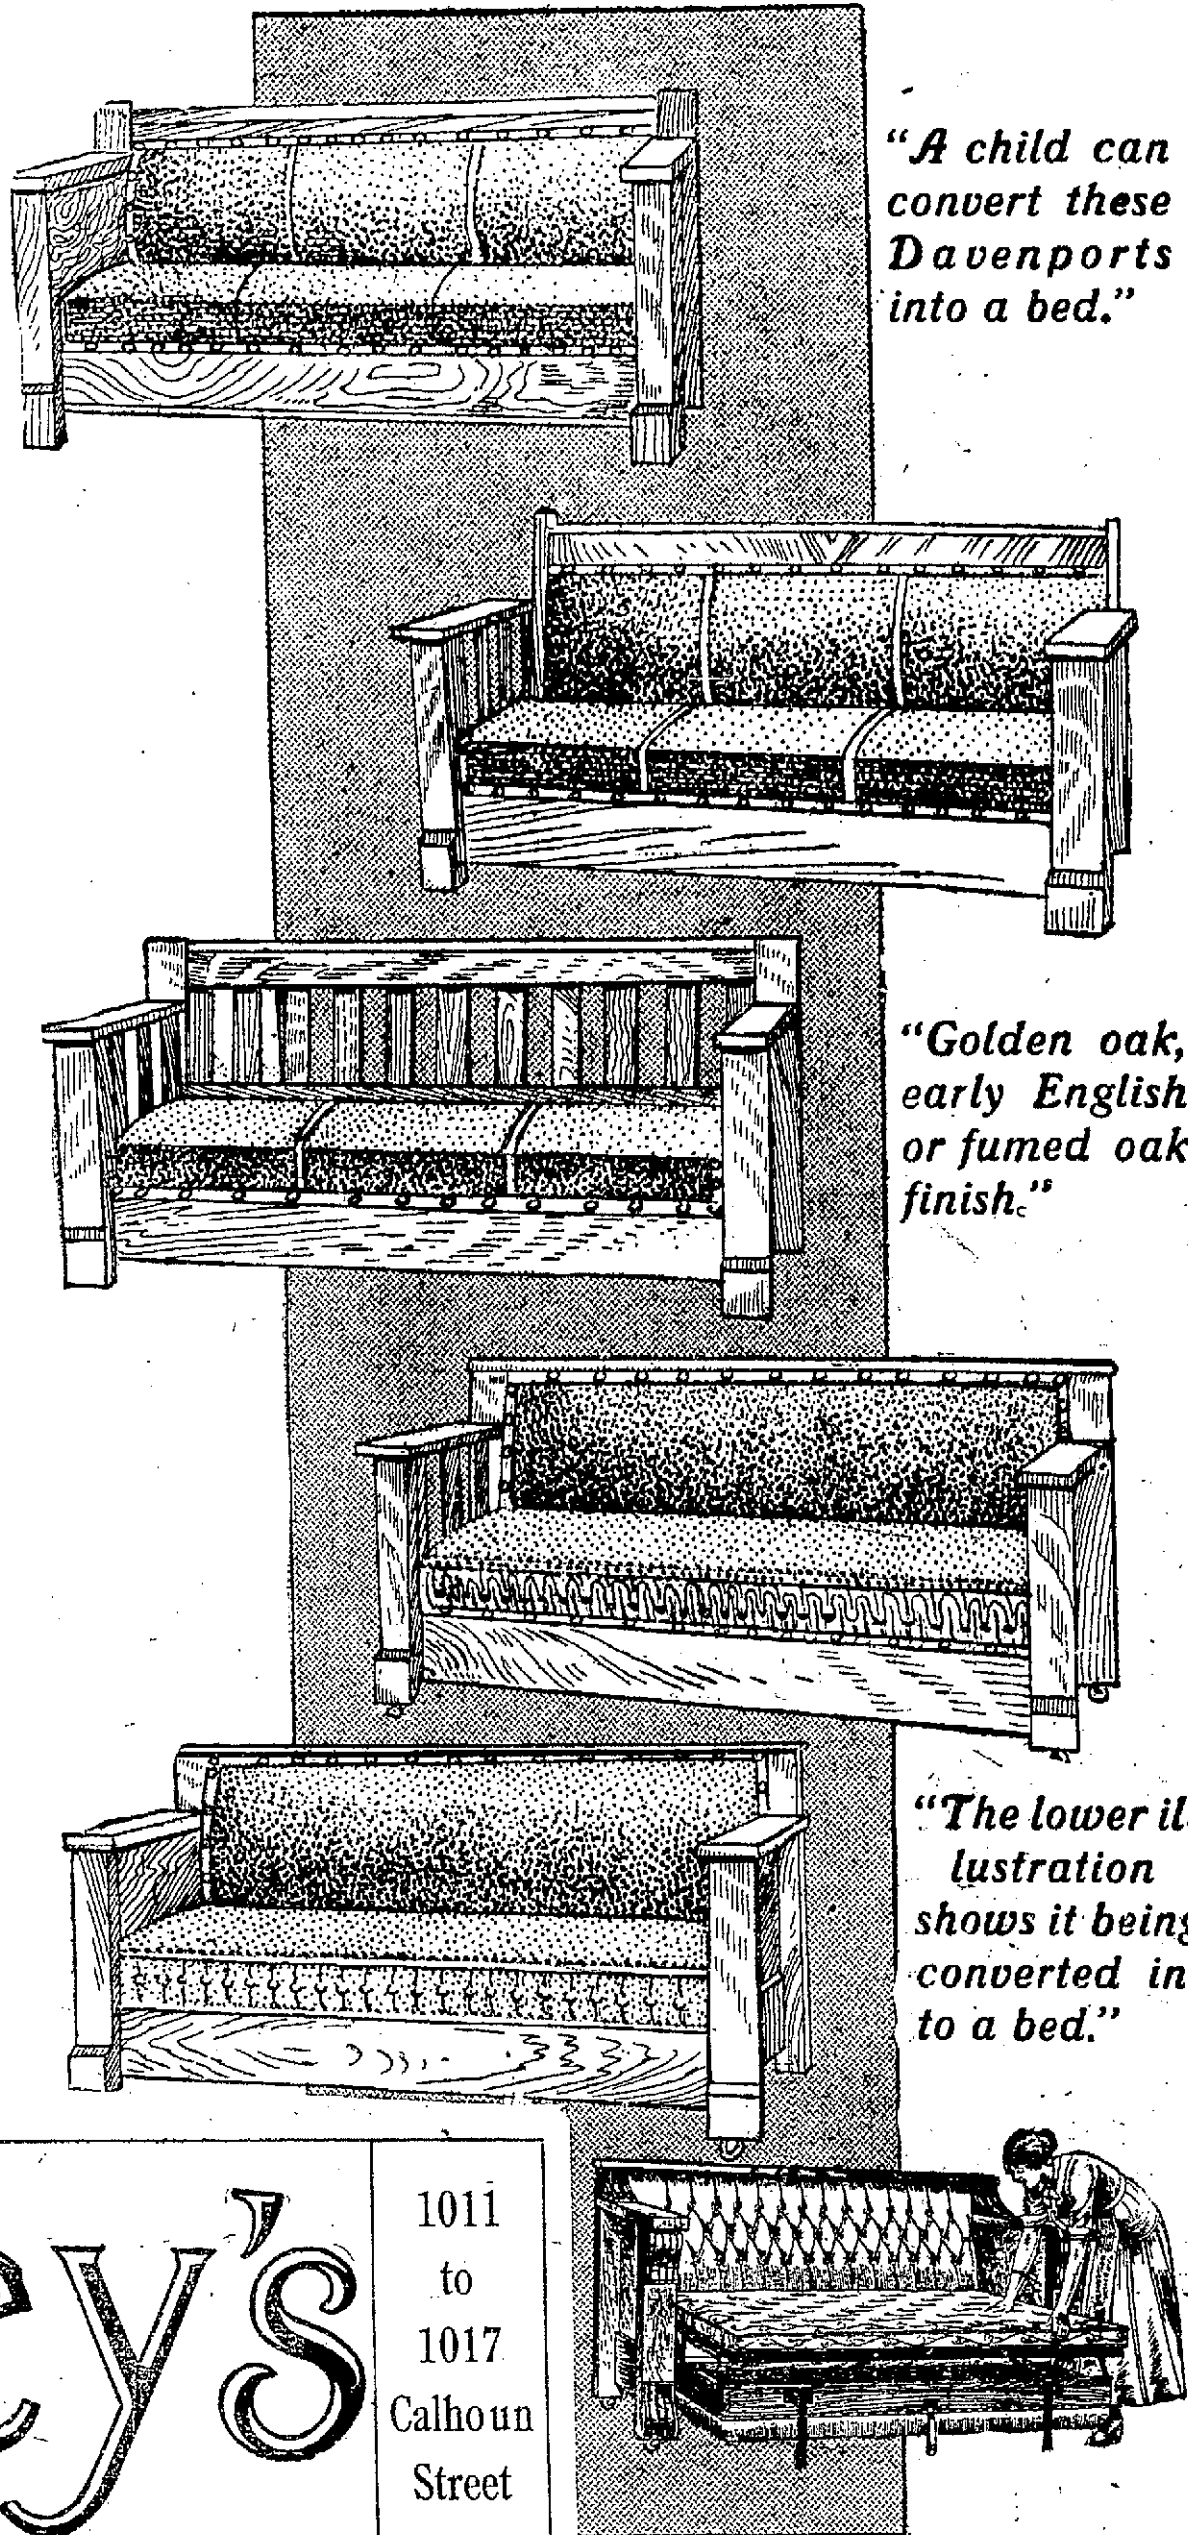

THE LITTLE PRINCESS

Cannot be equalled at the price—no other store is willing to sell at so small a margin of profit as the HADLEY'S. No other store has the buying advantages that we have in bringing down prices to the lowest possible level. Four rooms such as The Little Princess represents cannot be duplicated elsewhere for less than $80 to $75 more—it's a fact, and though imitated in name—there is only one original—at the HADLEY'S—the 4-room wonder at $185

PLUNGED ON HIS HORSE TO RIVER

Cowboy and Steed Swim
Swift Current to Rescue
Maiden.

SHE HELD TO A ROCK

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 23.—A thrilling story with the true western flavor, including the most expert horseman among the local cowboys for the hero, a charming young Boise girl for the heroine, a heavy of pretty nurses and the Boise river at its most treacherous points as the background, has been brought to town by passengers on the stage from the Twin Springs country, who passed the stop where the incident took place just after the accident.

Miss Carpenter, daughter of Frank E. Carpenter, of this city, and a party of nurses are camping on the south fork of the Boise, about thirty miles from the city. The river at this particular spot is particularly beautiful. A low bridge crosses the river, which is wooded on both sides, and the stream extends to a broad pool just above the bridge.

In this pool Miss Carpenter was teaching the girls to swim. She is an expert swimmer and often has an admiring throng about her when she is in the plunge at the natatorium.

But the river at this point is considered the most treacherous of any point on account of the undertow, the swift current and the rocks. While doing some fancy swimming Miss Carpenter struck an undertow which immediately carried her out to the swiftest part of the river, where even her expert knowledge was not sufficient to battle with the raging current. She did not lose her presence of mind, however, but, realizing that the water was not very deep in spite of the current, she pushed her feet down until they struck a forked rock.

Here she braced herself and then called to the frightened girls, who had quickly gained the shore when they saw their friend in peril, to get a rope from the camp and throw it to her.

A rope was secured, but the effort to throw it was unsuccessful. A second attempt was made, with the same result. By this time the fair swimmer realized that her strength was giving out and she called to the girls to run to the nearest ranch house for help.

The home of Miss Emma Ross was not far away. Reaching there, one of the girls quickly gasped out the story. George Graham, a cowboy who is noted in this section as being one of the most expert riders in the country and who won recently a handsome silver-mounted saddle in a riding, broncho-busting and lassoing contest, was present. Before the frightened young woman could finish her story Graham had mounted his cayuse and galloped to the scene of the accident. Miss Carpenter was battling with the current as best she could when he appeared. He spurred his horse into the stream and the animal swam out to the spot where the knight of the lasso caught the girl just as her strength was giving out, threw her across the saddle and bore her fainting back to shore.

The value of canned pineapples shipped from Hawaii during the fiscal year of 1911 amounted to $2,000,000.

size, in 25 out of 29 cities from which reports were secured and there was no change of price in the remaining four cities. During the same period Pennsylvania anthracite, chestnut size, advanced in 25 out of 27 cities, and bituminous advanced in 17 out of 22 cities, the price remained unchanged in 12 cities and declined in 3 cities. In the North Atlantic states Pennsylvania white ash coal, stove size, was 11.3 per cent, higher on April 15, 1912, than a year before. Pennsylvania anthracite, white ash, chestnut size, 11.9 higher, and bituminous 11 per cent, higher. These were the largest increases, while in the western states the prices were unchanged or there was no date for anthracite and bituminous coal, which was 1.7 per cent, less than April 15, 1911.

The net price of gas for household use on April 15, compared with the previous year, showed that reduction ranged from 3 to 15 cents for many cities among 54 companies in 36 cities and practically unchanged among the natural gas plants.

COURTED FORTY YEARS.

Then Old Physician And His Sweetheart Are Wedded.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 23.—A romance which began more than forty years ago reached its climax in Trinity Cathedral, when Dr. William H. Falls and Cordelia W. B. Coffey, both of Cincinnati, were married by Dean Dumoulin.

Dr. Falls, one of the best known physicians of Cincinnati, is sixty-two years old and his bride is fifty-eight. They have known each other since childhood, but the courtship had extended since she was eighteen.

Dr. Falls is giving up his practice in Cincinnati for the sake of his bride. Both are wealthy. They will reside in Cleveland. Neither has been married before. There will be no honeymoon trip.

"We have known each other for forty years," said Dr. Falls before the wedding. "I wanted to get married long ago, but Miss Coffey kept putting it off. She is of a sensitive nature and it was only on condition that we would come here both for the ceremony and to live that she finally yielded."

FLIPS COIN TO GET A WIFE, WOODED AND WON HER IN AN HOUR.

J. G. MURPHY AND HIS WIFE.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 23.—It is not usual to choose a bride by matching a coin with a waiter as to whether you be introduced to a lady with a view to matrimony or not, to win the game and the lady and get married all within twelve hours, but John G. Murphy was united in wedlock to Miss Eva Kelleher, a cafe entertainer, by Police Judge Shortall recently under those conditions.

Murphy hails from England and owns to the novel, though remunerative, profession of "Tree Doctor." He has been employed for some time on the Crocker estate, where he has been treating sick kings of the forest for decay and other ailments.

On various visits to San Francisco he was greatly attracted by the dancing of Miss Kelleher and her sister at a downtown cafe. He opened his heart to Robert S. Andrews, one of the waiters in the place, and vowed that he would marry Eva if he could get an introduction.

"All right," said Andrews. "I'll just match you to see whether I fix it for you or not."

So they matched coins. Murphy won and Andrews lost no time in telling Miss Kelleher about Murphy. An introduction followed and Murphy began a campaign of persuasion that lasted not more than an hour.

Eva consented to quit the stage to become the tree doctor's wife. A license was obtained and the couple, with Eva's sister Bettie as bridesmaid and Andrews as best man, hurried to the Hall of Justice, where Judge Shortall performed the ceremony.

Murphy and his bride will remain in California a few months, and then go to England and make their home there.

THIS NEW PLAN AWAKES A CITY

Texas Town Booming Under Its New Rule of Government.

IS COMMISSION FORM

Kansas City, Sept. 23.—Commission government has something about it that quickens the sluggishness of so many cities. That, at least, is the belief of S. S. Shackelford, of Austin, Texas, who is at the Denmore hotel. Mr. Shackelford says he has seen it work in his home town.

"Under the old form of government half the houses in town were vacant, the streets were unpaved, we had no sidewalks and no parks," Mr. Shackelford said. "The city had a large indebtedness, and no matter how much we voted we were unable to get anything done.

"Four years ago we adopted the commission form of government. Since that time the town has increased fully one-sixth in population, two new skyscrapers have been erected, the streets are paved and sidewalks have been laid, and we have a park system. We have voted a bond issue of $1,500,000 to rebuild the dam across the Colorado river. The street railway and the water and gas mains have been extended."

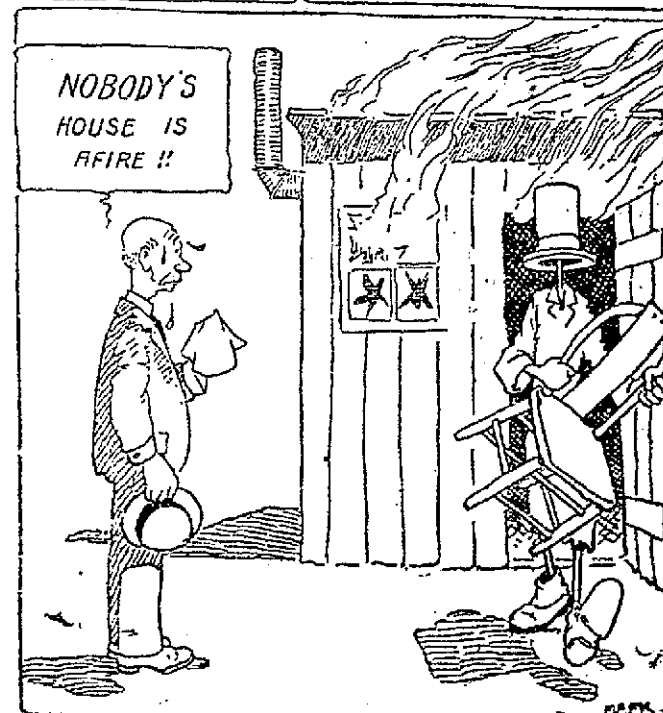

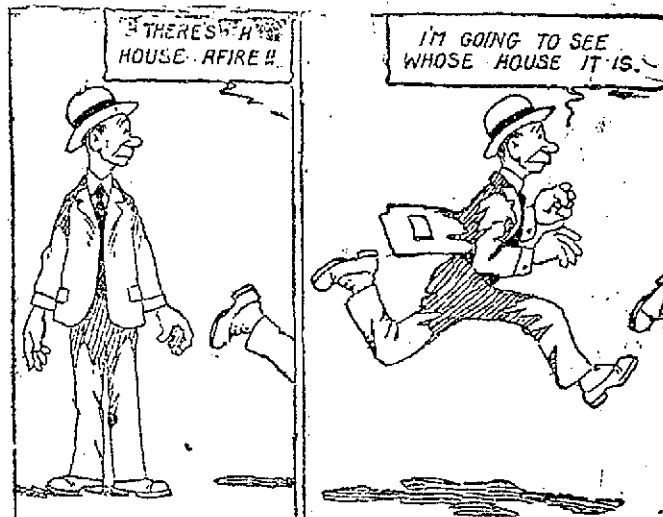

Mr. Shackelford is a believer in Kansas City and has investments here.

"I should like to see Kansas City adopt the same kind of government as we have. This is a great city you have here, but I honestly believe that it would be an even greater and better city if politics counted for less and business methods for more in its administration."

Within ten years twenty-five square miles of land around New York has been reclaimed by being filled in with coal ashes gathered in the city.
